Senate slashes fund, could affect Tocks

By MARY C. BERRY
Record Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. Clifford P. Case, New Jersey Republican, Wednesday deplored the "gutting" of land and Water Conservation Fund legislation, in part because of its effect upon the proposed Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area.

The fund is to be used to purchase land for parks and recreation areas immediately in an effort to combat rising land prices due to speculation. The Senate passed the bill Tuesday with two amendments. One prohibiting the use of fees from off-shore oil and gas leases to help finance the fund, the other cutting the proposed increase in the fund from $700 million over five years to $300 million over three years.

At present, revenue for the fund comes chiefly from entrance and users fees for national parks. These fees have not been bringing in as much revenue as was expected when the fund was first established.

Case is concerned about the cuts in the fund because he feels that the money could have been used to purchase land for the Delaware Water Gap recreation area where rising land prices have been a problem.

The New Jersey senator pointed out that the land acquisition program there was meant to be completed by 1970, but that the Department of Interior presently estimates it will take until 1975 because of the lack of money in the fund.

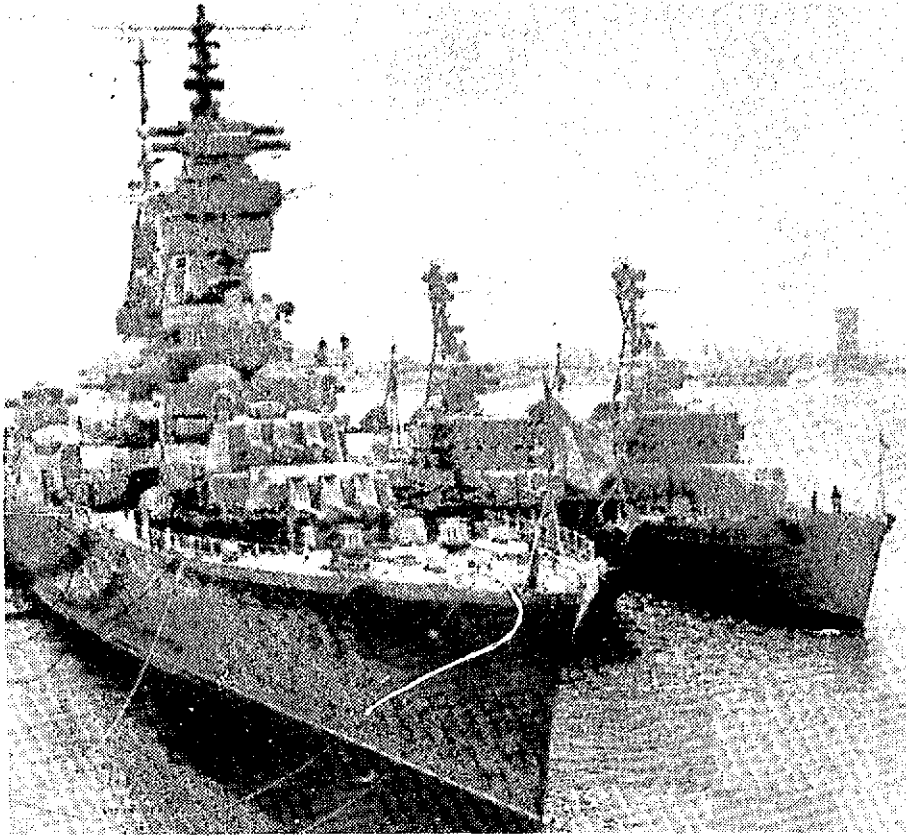

Furthermore, Case said that if land prices continue to escalate at the expected rate of 8 to 10 per cent a year, the projected total cost of the park, $37.4 million, could be raised by 50 per cent.

He said the Department of Interior had estimated that if the fund had been augmented as the legislation originally would have provided, the land could have been purchased for $37.4 million as planned.

An aide said that Case, who is a member of the senate public works appropriations subcommittee which will be considering funds for the reservoir, is concerned about the mounting cost of the project.

The senator has not yet seen a secret house appropriations committee report which states that the costs of the project are rising alarmingly and, proportionately, the benefits are declining. The report blames this largely on damage which the dam may do to New Jersey's oyster industry. However, estimates of the amount of that damage vary widely.

An aide said he thought Case would want to examine this report carefully when it is published. The house committee will probably release it sometime this month.

The White House agreed Wednesday to a suggestion by Indonesia that proposed peace talks with North Vietnam be held aboard an Indonesian warship in the Gulf of Tonkin. Offered was the Russian-built cruiser Iran, shown in 1956 photo. (UPI Telephoto)

Hanoi may refuse Indonesian offer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House quickly agreed Wednesday to an Indonesian proposal to hold preliminary talks with North Vietnam aboard an Indonesian cruiser to be sent to Tonkin Gulf.

But it would surprise Washington officials if Hanoi accepts the floating-site offer. The Reds have already spurned a U.S. suggestion to meet in Indonesia's capital, Jakarta.

President press secretary George Christian and other U.S. spokesmen nonetheless gave straight-faced replies when asked about the latest twist in the month of maneuvering over where U.S. and North Vietnamese envoys should meet for their proposed direct talks.

Indonesia's foreign minister, Adam Malik, said after a cabinet meeting in Jakarta that his country has told the opposing sides it is willing to sail a cruiser to the Tonkin Gulf—lying between the North Vietnamese and Red Chinese coasts—for a meeting site.

Malik reported no formal reply had arrived yet from either Washington or Hanoi, although the Communists had indicated they still prefer their proposed sites—Phnom Penh, Cambodia or Warsaw.

An Indonesian site is presumably objectionable to North Vietnam's ally, Communist China. Peking broke relations with Indonesia after the current leadership there ousted the left-leaning Sukarno regime.

The White House said Indonesia's offer—which comes in addition to 15 Asian and European locations previously proposed by U.S. diplomats—"is acceptable to the United States."

"A neutral ship on a neutral sea would be a good meeting place," Christian told newsmen in words recalling some presidential oratory aboard the U.S. carrier Enterprise last Veterans Day.

In that speech on the flight deck aboard the carrier off San Diego, Calif., President Johnson declared the U.S. search for peace could extend even to a meeting ground at sea—a vast place which might help men realize the "ultimate smallness of their quarrel."

"For us, the ward room could readily be a conference room," he said. "A neutral ship on a neutral sea would be as good a meeting place as any."

Johnson recalled that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Britain's prime minister, Winston Churchill, had met aboard the U.S. cruiser Augusta off Newfoundland in August 1941 to draw up the Atlantic Charter. The charter was a statement of aims of the World War II allies.

Water-borne meetings are sprinkled elsewhere through diplomatic history, too. In 1807 Russia's Alexander I and France's Napoleon Bonaparte concluded a treaty aboard a river raft. U.S. Gen. Douglas MacArthur accepted Japan's World War II surrender on the battleship Missouri.

If the U.S. and North Vietnamese emissaries do wind up on an Indonesian warship, it could be Soviet-built. Malik did not specify a particular vessel, but the large scale Moscow arms deliveries to Indonesia during the Sukarno era included a cruiser, sources have said.

LBJ's tax program given start

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's campaign for a $10-billion tax increase was blasted out of deadlock Wednesday when the House Appropriations Committee agreed on an $18-billion total long and short range appropriations cut.

The committee specified that the reduction must include an actual spending cut of not less than $4 billion during the year beginning July 1. Because of long-range programs, appropriations and spending never exactly coincide in any one year.

The committee action, adoption of a resolution setting out its intentions, does not guarantee that the tax-economy bill will be passed, or even that it will be submitted in the form outlined.

Republicans said they will carry on the fight for deeper cuts, and some Democrats are known to be ready to join them.

Nevertheless, the action goes a long way toward meeting the price that economy advocates set for a tax increase and it is certain to revive meaningful discussion of a bill that has been bogged down in a Senate-House conference for weeks.

The administration promptly accepted the proposed formula.

The $4-billion actual spending reduction for fiscal year 1969 immediately emerged as the most controversial part of the package.

Rocky calls for contact with China

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller called Wednesday for closer contacts with Communist China and the de-Americanization of the war in Vietnam.

"We should encourage contact and communication for the good of us both," he said. "This could significantly affect the whole future of our relations with the Communist world."

Rockefeller made the statement in a 6:30 dress review of American foreign policy and problems in a speech before the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia.

On the Vietnamese war, he said, a "purely military solution" cannot be achieved, and he added, "The Americanization of the effort, military and civilian, should be reversed."

May Day fetes show differences

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Boots thumped on the streets of Moscow, Peking and East Berlin Wednesday while Prague's hippies and Boy Scouts marched out of step in May Day parades that showed the cracks and contrasts in the face of communism.

"Down with Zionists," "Shame on the Americans," placards in Warsaw said. "Make love not war," "Truth prevails but it is hard work," read those in Prague, where a wave of liberalization has made free speech possible and eliminated some of the name-calling reflexes of the orthodox Communist world.

Celebrations brought thousands to the streets on every continent. In Peking, where Japanese correspondents reported both a curious "holiday mood" and a few clashes between police and paraders, there were "hundreds of thousands" marching to brass bands. Huge pictures, draped in red, of Mao Tse-tung, 73, decorated the Gate of Heavenly Peace.

In Hanoi, Ho Chi Min, 77, "healthy and smiling," according to the North Vietnamese news agency, greeted celebrants and appealed to all workers to help defeat the United States.

In non-Communist countries, where May Day is akin to the American Labor Day, there were mass meetings. Pope Paul, noting that May 1 is now recognized as a Catholic holiday, welcomed 30,000 worshippers outside St. Peter's Basilica.

Law Day ceremonies held

Judge urges youthful responsibility

By BERT WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — "In your hands rest the keys to the kingdom of a better society," more than 400 Monroe County students were told Wednesday by Judge Arlington W. Williams in what was the first organized Law Day observance locally.

"If you use these keys wisely and nobly," Judge Williams added, "you will be the creators of a better society and all mankind looking upon your work, knowing that it lies at the foundation of all natural happiness, will rise up and call you blessed.

The 450 students from all four school districts and Notre Dame High School, crammed into the courtroom at 1:30 p.m. for the Law Day observance ceremonies.

The ceremonies were originally scheduled in the courthouse square as a rally.

The students filled the main floor of the courtroom, the balcony and were also in a line from the door down the stairs to the main floor.

Given a standing ovation following his address, Judge Williams urged the students to "reject the growing attitude that one may practice civil disobedience and that it is morally right to break the laws you disagree with."

"You must reject the irresponsible people who under the guise of freedom of speech have become the willing tools of our country's enemies, by roaming the streets and college campuses denouncing our American institutions," Judge Williams said.

Affirming that "only a lawful society can build a better society," Judge Williams said that "rebellion by our young people, if expressed by means of the democratic process rather than through civil disobedience, is not only healthy but highly desirable."

"If the laws of our land are to be just laws, they need to be fashioned with the wisdom, prudence and restraint of age tempered with the idealism, the unselfishness and enthusiasm of youth," the judge added.

Judge Williams said that he believes the youth of today are seeking three things of society:

"That it be a peaceful society; that it be a society where love for our fellow man abounds and that it be a society whose members practice self-denial," he said, adding, "I believe that our youth are sincere in their hopes and aspirations that peace, love, self-denial shall dominate our way of life."

But, "the ways of peace are not the ways of the violent, the lawless, the looter, the thief," he said.

"As the young people of today, you have a job to do and are just as important to society as the older generation," he told the junior and senior high school students.

"If you are shiftless, careless, and lawless, you will be the bottlenecks which close the sluice gates through which might flow a steady stream of progress toward a peaceful society, a society of love and a society which practices self-denial," he said.

Philip Santucci, assistant Monroe County district attorney, told the students he hoped that some of them will adhere to a few things Judge Williams said.

Judge Arlington Williams

During the opening of the ceremony, the Stroudsburg High School band played several selections, in addition to the national anthem, while the crowd inside stood silent.

George Robinson, president of the Monroe County Bar Assn., said that Law Day was not set aside in honor of the lawyers.

Robinson said Congress proclaimed May 1 as Law Day in appreciation of the liberties in the United States.

Robinson also introduced county officials and told students tours of the courthouse were planned.

ed kingdom's shadowy jungle war.

Clashes and Communist mortar attacks are reported almost daily by government outposts in disputed areas. But casualties are now numbered in twos and threes instead of in hundreds.

There is no more talk of North Vietnam's "general offensive against the Laotian Kingdom" which Souvanna reported in an appeal to the nation April 1.

The premier called on Laotian patriots that day to "resist the cruel aggression of the enemy who wants to destroy our nation."

From mid-January to the end of March, the government lost substantial ground in the northern and northeastern part of the country.

On Jan. 15, a division-strength government force fled in disorder from the Nam Bac Valley 60 miles north of the royal capital of Luang Prabang.

Army commanders reported losing 5,000 men in the action, virtually their entire strategic reserve.

In the south, government garrisons in the provincial capitals of Saravane and Attapeu are surrounded and have to be supplied by air lift, by a U.S. AID-supported civilian airline.

But Communist military activity has centered largely on an area the Communists lost to government or "rightist" forces in the years following the 1962 Geneva treaty on the neutrality and independence of Laos.

An estimated 40,000 North Vietnamese regulars and an almost equal number of Communist Pathet Lao forces control virtually half the country—containing less than one-third of the two million inhabitants.

The area of Communist control is the home of hill tribes with a tradition of rebellion. It covers almost all the eastern highlands along the 1,000-mile-long border with North and South Vietnam.

South of the 17th Parallel, it includes the numerous jungle tracks of Communist infiltration into South Vietnam which are known collectively as the Ho Chi Minh trail.

The 75,000 troops supporting the government receive U.S. military aid running at more than $10 million a year. They suffer from habitual internal squabbling and a lack of any fighting spirit.

They are backed by regular bomb attacks on Communist forces in Laos by American planes based in neighboring Thailand. The United States maintains inside Laos radar sites to guide American bombers and reconnaissance planes to North Vietnam and to Communist targets in this country.

In accordance with the 1962 agreement, the United States has no combat troops in Laos to defend such outposts or to help government forces meet the Communist attacks.

The Geneva agreement required the withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops from Laos, but the Communists have ignored this.

Nonetheless, Western diplomats believe there are hopeful signs that the Communists do not intend to overrun the fertile, densely populated Mekong plains facing Thailand.

Several Western diplomats here attribute this apparent restraint to the influence of the Soviet Union, apparently anxious to block any Communist initiative in the area which could place new obstacles on the difficult road to peace in Vietnam.

Students disrupt Temple installation

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Several hundred sign-carrying students temporarily disrupted the inauguration of Temple University President Paul R. Anderson Wednesday when they walked out in the midst of the academic ceremony.

The students called Anderson "the wrong man for the job" and protested a Board of Trustees' decision to deny tenure to a professor.

Last fall the professor refused to use the traditional A-to-F grading system for his students and substituted a pass-fail, grading system in his classes.

The 1,650 guests at the ceremony, including Pennsylvania Gov. Shafer, waited in silence for about five minutes as the students filed out of Philadelphia's famed Academy of Music. Estimates of the size of the walkout group ranged from 200 to 400.

In his address, Anderson called for a review by urban universities of their moral responsibility in solving social problems. He said in order for the university to meet complex urban problems, the academic community must pool its manpower to develop programs to better relate the university to the urban scene. To do this, Anderson said the university in America must launch massive research efforts designed to confront basic issues.

The students who walked out continued picketing the inaugural outside the Academy of Music. Police said the demonstrators were orderly and that no problems had arisen.

Anderson became the fifth president of the 43,000 student university. He succeeded Dr. Millard E. Gladfelter, who retired last August to become the school's chancellor.

State declares Clarion dorm unlivable

HARRISBURG (AP)—A privately owned dormitory, housing 230 coeds at Clarion State College, has been declared by the Pennsylvania Health Department as unfit for human habitation, Rep. Max H. Homer, D-Allegheny, reported Wednesday.

Homer, who has been a vocal critic of the building known as Shafer Hall, released the contents of a letter sent by Department officials to Dr. James Gemmell, president of the college.

The letter cited roof leakage as the reason for the dormitory being considered unfit and ordered that it be vacated at the end of the current school year "until such time that is demonstrated that suitable repairs and alterations have been made."

Homer noted he had obtained a temporary injunction earlier to stop the owners of the building, Arenze, Inc., of Monroeville, from raising the rent from $8 to $10 a week. The lawmaker said he expected a decision this week.

Enemy shifts force

Reds threatening Leatherneck base

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Marines were locked in battle late Wednesday with North Vietnamese in the northeast, where the enemy appears to have shifted forces to menace the Leatherneck base at Dong Ha.

It was the third straight day of fighting in this sector, and the U.S. Command received few details. But it reported battles in this area cost the enemy 616 dead Monday and Tuesday.

The new fighting broke out two miles northeast of Dong Ha and about nine miles south of the demilitarized zone dividing Vietnam. Engaged were elements of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division and presumably the North Vietnamese army's 320th Division.

The battle broke out in the same area where Marines Tuesday clashed with an estimated enemy battalion in a well fortified bunker complex and reported killing 92. Twelve Marines were killed and 92 wounded in that day-long battle.

The total of 616 enemy killed was compiled from reports by the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands and covered several sharp battles Monday and Tuesday around Dong Ha and Quang Tri, 13 miles to the east. Total allied casualties in the two days of fighting were put at 60 killed and 279 wounded.

Until early last month, the focus had been on the northwest corner around Khe Sanh, the Marine combat base that was relieved after a 77-day artillery, rocket and mortar siege.

Then attention swung to the A Shau Valley region along the Laos border to the south with allied forces entering that enemy stronghold for the first time in more than two years.

Reports from the north have not yet positively identified the enemy units involved in the recent action. Saigon spokesmen said they did not know whether they might include newly infiltrated North Vietnamese soldiers. It has long been known that the enemy has sizable units in the northernmost provinces that can be moved rapidly from one battle zone to another.

Intelligence reports show that two regiments of the North Vietnamese army's 320th Division have been operating in and north of what is known as Leatherneck Square. One corner of the square is Dong Ha.

In the restricted air war over North Vietnam, flying weather was poor again Tuesday and U.S. pilots flew only 88 missions against targets in the panhandle, headquarters said.

It added that clouds limited damage assessment, but that fragmentary reports indicated one bridge was damaged heavily, four trucks were destroyed or damaged and three secondary explosions were set off.

Hanoi radio claimed a U.S. plane was shot down Wednesday over an island off the port of Haiphong, an area off limits to American planes since April.

There was some action along the political front.

President Nguyen Van Thieu told a May Day labor rally at Da Nang, site of the big U.S. Marine base, that he never will negotiate with the Viet Cong. And he added South Vietnam will not cede "even one centimeter" of land to North Vietnam.

Thieu was apparently answering war policy critics in the United States and elsewhere who have been suggesting a South Vietnamese coalition government to include the Viet Cong.

Pen Argyl approves municipal authority

PEN ARGYL — Establishment of a joint municipal authority to undertake construction and financing for the Northampton County Community College was approved by the Pen Argyl Area School District Board of Education at their regular meeting Monday night.

The authority, also approved by the Bangor Area School District Board of Education, will be called the "Northampton County Area Community College Authority."

The authority will consist of one member from each of the eight participating school districts.

School directors also approved the following trustees for the Community College: George H. Fritzinger of Bethlehem; Cecil D. Lipkin of Easton; James R. Charron of Pen Argyl and David Feinberg of Wilson Borough.

Five teachers were also hired by the directors. They are:

Stephen T. Williams as industrial arts teacher. He is a 1961 graduate of Pen Argyl Area High School.

Miss Gail Eileen Stull, elementary teacher; Robert W. Wenger of Tannersville, physical science teacher; Patrick Corey of Delaware Water Gap, physics teacher; Miss Gloria Jean Keiper, home economics teacher.

E. David Godshall, who taught general shop in the high school for 15 years, was named instructional media specialist. Mrs. Kathryn Ealey, a third grade teacher, was appointed to head teacher in the Garfield Building.

The resignation of Robert Doney, art teacher, was accepted with regret. The resignation of Mrs. Carol A.

Walker, fourth grade teacher at the McKinley Building, was also accepted.

Directors also approved correction of an error made at the March meeting on the retirement policy. The corrected policy states that all professional and full-time non-professional employees who reach age 65 on or before June 30 of any year, shall retire on that date.

Bills for the month of April, totalling $90,386, and athletic bills in the amount of $2,255, were authorized to be paid. The Board named the Pen Argyl National Bank to be the School Depository of the General Fund, the General Organization Fund, and the Cafeteria Fund for the fiscal school year 1968-69.

Contracts awarded

Bids for fuel and a Descriptive Accounting Machine were opened. The bid of the Wind Gap Coal and Lumber Company for 200 tons of Anthracite Buckwheat No. One Coal at $13.55 a ton for the McKinley and Garfield Buildings, was accepted. The bid of J. H. Beers to supply 120,000 gallons of No. Four Cold Fuel Oil for the Pen Argyl Area High School and the Plainfield Township Consolidated School for $9,756, was approved. J. H. Beers was also awarded the contract to supply 100,000 gallons of No. Two Fuel Oil for the Wind Gap Elementary School and the Pen Argyl Area Junior High School at a cost of $12,300.

The Board authorized the purchase of an Electronic Descriptive Accounting Machine with a magnetic strip at a cost of $10,800 from the Burroughs Corporation of Detroit, Mich.

Permission was granted the Vocational-Technical School Joint Operating Committee to invest $5,000 of current funds in U.S. Treasury Bills and apply it to the 1968-69 budget year.

The Board approved the proposed 1968-69 budget of the Northampton County Area Community College.

Korean veterans' bonus

Pike residents receive $34,910

Record Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — Payments under the Pennsylvania Korean Conflict Veterans' Bonus Act were made to 135 veterans or beneficiaries in Pike County as of the end of the past fiscal year, records of the State Department of Military Affairs indicated yesterday.

The breakdown for the county includes 77 Army veterans, 28 Navy veterans, 24 Air Force veterans, plus six "miscellaneous" — including U.S. Marine Corps, U.S. Coast Guard, Nurses' Corps, Public Health Service, and Aviation Cadets on active duty.

Total payments to Pike

County veterans of the Korean Conflict as of the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1967, amounted to $34,910, of which amount $500 was in the form of payments to veterans' beneficiaries with $29,875 going to out-of-service veterans, and $4,535 to veterans of the conflict still classified as active duty.

Throughout the state as a whole, as of the end of the past fiscal year, the Korean Bonus had been paid to 263,937 Pennsylvania veterans (exclusive of eligible applicants living outside of the state) for a total bonus payment of $66,233,208.

Of the total number of recipients, the greatest single number of payments by branch of service was the Army with 152,428, followed by the Navy with 47,322, and the Air Force, at 43,681.

Camp Indian Trails site for water safety school

MILFORD — If you take to water like the proverbial duck, chances are you'll be glad to learn that the American Red Cross is offering advanced training in water safety at Camp Indian Trails, Milford.

According to Samuel T. Ingram, Jr., Assistant regional manager, Red Cross Eastern Area, Red Cross Aquatic Schools will be open to men and women 18 years of age and over who are interested in improving their proficiency in swimming, lifesaving, and first aid, or to qualify as Red Cross volunteer instructors in these fields.

No previous training is necessary for students desiring to become First Aid Instructors, said Ingram, but candidates for Water Safety Instructor must possess a current Red Cross Senior Lifesaving Certificate or be able to perform various swimming strokes proficiently.

In addition, persons who are now authorized Water Safety Instructors may enroll in such electives as Handicapped Swimming, Synchronized Swimming, Canoeing, Boating, or Sailing, depending on individual needs and qualifications. Not all electives are offered at all camps. The school in Milford is one of several in the northeastern United States.

The aquatic school is essentially short-term leadership training schools. For this reason the training is intensive, and outstanding water safety instructors are in charge, Ingram pointed out. All courses include a daily schedule of classes, sessions for instruction, practice, and practice teaching. Provisions are also made for a well-rounded recreation program.

Tocks Island area bus tour May 18

STROUDSBURG — The Sussex County, N.J. Historical Society will sponsor a bus tour of the Old Mine Road and Tocks Island area May 18.

The tour bus will leave 10 a.m. from the society's museum at 82 Main St., Newton, N.J. Lunch will be served at Wallpack Inn. The bus will return to the museum at 3:30 p.m. Reservations may be made until May 14.

Musical tour feature at Pen Argyl school

PEN ARGYL — The Pen Argyl Area High School Vocal Music Department will present "Showtime U.S.A." at 8 p.m. on May 9 and 10 in the auditorium.

The annual concert, directed by Thoburn E. Cassidy, will feature the senior, junior, and seventh grade choruses, totaling about 250 voices.

All music will be based on show and Broadway tunes from the 1920's to the present time. A group of ninth grade girls will be featured dancing the Charleston; the "Fabulous Freshmen," a group of ninth grade boys will do a minstrel style song and dance routine to "Give My Regards To Broadway" and "By the Light of the Silvery Moon;" the "Muskettes," a trio of ninth grade girls will sing "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man," and a male quartette from the Senior Chorus will sing "Stout-hearted Men."

The senior chorus will open the program with selections from "Kiss Me Kate," "The Desert Song," "The Impossible Dream," and all major numbers from "South Pacific."

Throughout the program music will be heard from "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "How the West Was Won," "The King and I," "Gypsy," "Toyland," "Around the World," "The Sound of Music," "Naughty Marietta," "Wildcat," "Oklahoma," "My Fair Lady," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," and many others.

One of the highlights of the program will be the presentation of the Senior Chorus at the conclusion singing excerpts from many of the well-known shows.

Field crowded in big race

Nelson A. Rockefeller's entry in the 1968 presidential race has forced us to widen the track as the field is now crowded with five entries and that darkhorse George Wallace running on the outside and to the rear.

Rockefeller, the governor of New York, has turned the race into a five-man field, two wearing the colors of the Republicans and three in Democratic racing togs.

Rocky's decision to return to the political wars reversed an earlier decision, at which time he decided to step aside and let the world go by. However, it is now a different story and the former visitor to the Poconos is back on the campaign trail.

Rockefeller's decision to run actually gives each party a candidate who changed his mind midway in the race. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, considered as the man to beat in the Democratic camp, also returned to the track after first deciding not to run.

The field also includes two rivals with vice presidential experience in Richard M. Nixon for the GOP and Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democrats. It is a case of both attempting to work their way to the top and each possessing the best qualifications for the top office in the land on the basis of experience.

The entry of Rockefeller and Humphrey into the presidential campaign within one week was not surprising in the least. Both are true threats. The entry of these two candidates into the wars has put added spark and interest into the struggle for the office.

Republicans expect a knock-down-drag-out battle between Rockefeller and Nixon, while Democrats see a real sparkler between Humphrey, Kennedy and Sen. Eugene McCarthy, possibly the candidate with the most courage in the field, as he is opposing his own party as well as the opposition.

Suddenly there is a marked resemblance in the field. However, this very resemblance only further accentuates the difference.

In other words, there are two tremendous convention battles shaping up for this summer.

Take this to heart

Legislation is in order for heart transplants, not only in the United States, but all over the world.

As in everything else that gains notoriety, everybody wants to get in the race. Everyone wants to be first with the most.

Heart transplant attempts have been no exception since first attempted in South Africa under the direction of Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard.

It is our opinion that certain guidelines and limitations should be placed on further attempts.

It is our opinion that the recent attempt in France, in which a different heart was placed in the body of Clovis Roblain, was not good medically or morally.

Roblain was a grandfather and 66 years of age, and at this point in life certainly a very bad risk for heart transplant surgery. In fact, he was at a bad age for any type of operation.

It is our feeling that even with an incurable ailment, he may have had more than 51 hours, the time he lived with a new heart, remaining in life.

Heart transplants must be the most serious of current operations and the odds on the success of this type of surgery are extremely ridiculous at best.

Thus, every precaution must be taken and only patients without the possibility of future life should be used as the body in which to insert a new heart.

We have had only one successful heart transplant to date. Let's rest on our laurels and call off the race which threatens to rival the struggle for atomic supremacy.

Congressional quiz

Anti-crime legislation

By Congressional Quarterly
Since 1960, the over-all crime rate in the United States has increased by 88 per cent. Anticrime legislation is considered to be a priority issue of Congress in 1968. This quiz will test your knowledge of recent developments in anticrime measures.

1. One year ago, a comprehensive report on crime was issued by: (a) the Federal Bureau of Investigation; (b) the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice; (c) the Association of Superintendents of Police.

2. An Administration bill, incorporating the major recommendations of this report, is known as: (a) the Crime Prevention Act of 1967; (b) the Safe Streets and Crime Control Act; (c) the Criminal Lawlessness Act.

3. This bill: (a) has passed the House in amended form; (b) was cleared by Congress and signed by the President in 1967; (c) has not emerged from either the House or Senate Judiciary Committee.

4. "To Insure the Public Safety" was the title of: (a) a recent study by the Justice Department; (b) a report of the Republican Task Force on Crime; (c) the President's 1968 crime message to Congress.

5. In his 1968 crime message, President Johnson, for the first time, endorsed: (a) antiriot legislation; (b) gun control legislation; (c) block grants to the states to improve law enforcement methods.

Answers: 1. (b); 2. (b); 3. (a); 4. (c); 5. (a).

Humphrey leading?

WASHINGTON — There are solid political reasons why Hubert Humphrey is quickly proving himself in the lead for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

1—Even before he starts serious campaigning, Humphrey's convention delegate strength is at least as great as Kennedy's and McCarthy's combined. Analysts already give him 900-plus delegates; it takes 1,312 to nominate.

2—And the Gallup Poll shows that voters favoring McCarthy are far more pro-Humphrey than pro-Kennedy for second choice.

3—Humphrey has maximum vote appeal where it is most needed to win the election—in the ranks of labor, farmer, and in the South, a coalition which has enabled the Democrats to win seven of the past nine Presidential elections and 16 of the past 18 Congressional elections.

4—The most powerful Democratic leaders believe that Humphrey can do more to repair the divisiveness within the party than Kennedy who, they feel, from the day of his election as Senator from New York, has devoted himself to undercutting the Johnson administration.

Unique strength
Part of the evidence of the unifying effect of the Humphrey candidacy is its unique strength in the South where the third party candidacy of George Wallace could wreck Democratic chances this year.

Whereas Bobby has virtually no backing anywhere in the South, Hubert is today getting the nearly unanimous delegate support from the Southern and Border states and should carry nearly the entire South against both Wallace and the Republican nominee in November.

This is not as ironic as it might seem despite Humphrey's powerful plea for a tough civil rights plank at the 1948 convention—over the opposition of President Truman—which produced a Southern walkout and the Strom Thurmond third party.

Hubert's own explanation on "Meet the Press" of his remarkable support in the South was: "We have all changed, thank goodness."

He is no less dedicated to the cause of racial justice, but he has mellowed; he is a less dogmatic, more mature public official.

The extent to which the climate in much of the South has changed is illustrated by the latest findings of the Texas Poll which show that in the past five years there has been a "very substantial increase" in the willingness of white Texans to accept Negroes in many areas of social and business contact. For example:

Approval of integration of trains and buses — up from 49 percent to 74 percent.

Approval of integration of restaurants — 49 percent to 70 percent.

Staying in same hotels — 36 percent to 63 percent.

Working side by side in same job — 56 percent to 79 percent.

Sending children to same schools — 41 percent to 67 percent.

More popular
Some Southern politicians and many Southern voters will not relish Humphrey, but they relish Kennedy and McCarthy far less and they would very likely prefer to elect Humphrey than to elect a Republican and thereby risk losing the powerful committee chairmanships held by many Southern Senators and Congressmen.

The quickly emerging strength of the Humphrey candidacy does not mean that it's all over, far from it. Kennedy is formidable. He has not yet shown his full delegate potential. And there are imponderables in the mood of the country which cannot be adequately measured. If the Democratic voters want a Vietnam peace-at-any-price candidate, they don't want Hubert. If they want a candidate so hesitant to use American military power as to invite Communist aggression at will, they will not want Hubert.

But if Hubert makes it, he will go into the campaign with a more united Democratic party than otherwise would be possible. He would have almost certainly the active support of both Kennedy and McCarthy. He would be a unifying force.

Even a Humphrey-Kennedy ticket is not to be ruled out. The vice presidency is an alluring political escalator and Bobby may want to get on it.

Bob Considine

Setback for parents

NEW YORK—Asked a cab driver what he thought of the rebellion of the Columbia University students and the guy said, bitterly, "It shows it ain't worth raising a kid to go to college."

One wondered if that occurred to any of the protestors? Most of them, it is reasonable to guess, were attending Columbia with the financial aid of their parents. It costs like sin to send a kid through college today.

A lot of those costs are being met by parents who never had the opportunity or the luck or the brains to be exposed to the fine education that a school like Columbia can give.

How puzzled and distressed they must be, if their sons were part of the group that imprisoned a dean, sacked the president's office, and defied the great main body of students!

Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown had little trouble getting on the campus at the height of the rebellion. Brown's speech was cheered, on a campus his philosophy would destroy.

President Kirk's pleas to reason were ignored. The mainstream of the student body sat by, cowed by a comparative handful. The athletes, who could have at least run the non-student demonstrators off the campus, chickened.

How about changing the school song to make it read, "Roar, mouse, roar."

Meanwhile, in less than two years the greatest famine in history will be reaching its peak," notes I. F. Saunderson, executive director of the Meals for Millions Foundation, P.O. Box 1666, Santa Monica, Calif.

"And by the end of this year, over 3,000,000 children, tragic human beings, will die from lack of proper nourishment. Unless you've experienced hunger, it's almost impossible to comprehend.

I've been with starving children in the Far East, Europe, and more recently in South America. These pathetic youngsters are all alike in this respect: They just don't get enough food. And they all desperately need our support."

Look Magazine's current piece on Nelson Rockefeller contains some odd language:

"I think I could have destroyed Dick (Nixon) in Oregon, and he would have destroyed me," Rocky says. "If I just talked issues in Oregon, they would get lost in a discussion of personalities. If I wanted to win, I would have had to go after him the way I went after Barry (Goldwater)."

In the interview, Rockefeller sums up what he feels is a basic difference between himself and Nixon. He recalls that Nixon once said, "You can't have progress without order."

Rocky's position, he says, is that, "You can't have order without progress."

Roll me in my Rosetta Stone, please.

Gov. George Romney told reporters that "some people" are asking him to reconsider his bow-out and re-enter the race for the Republican nomination.

"The situation is fluid," the governor said.

Meaning, perhaps, that "some people" must have been drinking.

Richard Spong

Deep legal concern

The most frequently arrested of all age groups are 15-year-olds. Of offenders released from prison, roughly a third will be reincarcerated within a five-year period. The 15-17-year-olds are highest in arrests for burglary, larceny and auto theft.

These data come from the report of President Johnson's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice. They in part indicate why the legal profession itself is deeply concerned over juvenile lawbreaking and juvenile courts. Attorney Gen. Ramsey Clark will discuss long-range implications of the commission's report at a luncheon, May 3, as part of the American Bar Association's Institute on "The Changing World of Juvenile Law."

The United States Supreme Court on May 15, 1967, handed down a landmark decision (In re Gault) which held that the 14th amendment required the extension of constitutional rights to juveniles accused of crimes. The decision involved rules and procedures in most of the nation's 3,000 juvenile courts.

The court, in a decision written by Justice Abe Fortas, held that in delinquency hearings before juvenile court judges, children must be accorded the following safeguards of the Bill of Rights:

(1) Timely notice of the charges against them, (2) The right to have a lawyer, if necessary court-appointed, in any case in which the alleged offender might be placed in custody, (3) The right to cross-examine complainants and other witnesses, and (4) Adequate warning of the right to remain silent and of the privilege against self-incrimination.

No justification
"Neither the 14th amendment nor the Bill of Rights is for adults only," Justice Fortas asserted. "Under our Constitution the condition of being a boy does not justify a kangaroo court."

The court cited data showing that about half of the nation's juvenile court judges have no undergraduate degree. A fifth have no college education at all. And a fifth are not members of the bar.

The annual number of juvenile cases in the country runs about 600,000 and is rising. Few lawyers are familiar with the procedures of juvenile courts. Fortas observed that only New York, Minnesota, and the District of Columbia provided free counsel to juvenile defendants.

The House on Sept. 26, 1967, passed a Juvenile Delinquency Prevention and Control bill which is now before the Senate Labor and Welfare Committee. The original administration bill would have provided $25 million in grants to states for juvenile delinquency programs.

The House rewrote its major provisions to provide that the funds be distributed to the states in block grants, a provision strenuously opposed by the administration.

Passage of a juvenile delinquency control bill at this session is fairly likely — with a price tag of as much as $75 million. But the prospect of federal aid for restructuring juvenile courts is dubious at best.

Lester Coleman, M.D.

Readers are asking

WHAT are the most common causes of swelling of the eyelids? The usual excuses of lack of sleep or a hangover for puffy eyelids have some validity. No one knows better than the person who complains if either of these is true.

From the medical point of view, swelling of the eyelids, or edema, may be caused by some allergy. It is surprising how often the offender or the offending reason for allergic swelling of the eyes is nail polish. The shellac used in air sprays, hair dyes, eye liners, mascara, and cosmetics may all be responsible for swelling of the lids.

Some eye drops and antibiotic ointments may be responsible. Often it is very difficult to track down the exact allergic substance. With trial and error and by eliminating one at a time, the cause may be found.

There are some diseases like trichinosis which follows eating uncooked pork that are recognized by a distinctive type of swelling in the eyelids. This infection caused by a round worm parasite occurs far more frequently than is commonly suspected. A good general rule is to be sure that all pork and pork products are cooked thoroughly before eating.

Occasionally, chronic lung, heart, and kidney conditions can cause persistent swelling of the eyelids. These reasons are far less frequent than allergic response to cosmetics and food. It is relatively simple to track down the cause and this most certainly must be pursued in all cases of long standing swelling of the face or the lids.

What is a diverticulum of the intestine? There are a number of terms that are used to describe this condition and some of them seem to be confusing. A diverticulum is a small pouch found most usually on the outside wall of the large intestine. It is caused when the inner lining of the intestine pushes its way through the muscle wall and forms a sac-like protrusion. Diverticulosis is a condition in which there are many of these tiny sacs along the outer surface of the large intestine. It is somewhat difficult to explain why weakness of the muscle wall should occur and thus permit the out pouching of the sac.

It is thought that more than 10-per-cent of all people past the age of 60 will develop diverticula of the large intestine without having any symptoms of discomfort. Many of these are discovered during a routine x-ray examination of the intestines.

When one or more of these diverticula become inflamed or infected, the condition is called diverticulitis. When "itis" is attached to any term it means inflammation of that organ. The treatment for diverticulitis is directed at establishing good bowel habits when once the infection has cleared. A rigid diet that avoids highly seasoned foods, alcohol, and high roughage foods is important. The control of this condition with diet and drugs often avoids the necessity of surgery. Only in complicated and extensive cases is an operation necessary.

What are the most important causes of disease and illness in all parts of the world?

Let us call illness, disease and malformations all of the deviations from that which is known as good health. When the body is functioning well there may be temporary excursions into illness but soon the body returns to its normal health.

Infections caused by bacteria, viruses, and molds are of course the greatest threat to good health. Hereditary factors which may show up shortly after birth or even into adult life play a very important role in the health and disease of an individual.

Malnutrition is one of the great threats to mankind. I recently read this terrifying bit of statistics that said that 83 percent of the total population of the world never go to bed without distinct hunger, from the day they are born until the day they die. There are parts of the world where such malnutrition opens the avenues for the invasion by germs and eventually causes early death.

Tumors, especially cancers and allergies, play a most significant factor in alterations of good health.

SPAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: The neuritic must not be ashamed of being one. In this frenetic world, it is almost impossible to avoid this penalty.

Haddon director of LVSS

STROUDSBURG — John C. Haddon, Stroudsburg, and Arthur H. Marshall, Allentown, are newly elected directors to the board of the Lehigh Valley Social Service Exchange.

Board members of the Exchange are elected by the 94 health and welfare agencies comprising its membership and using its confidential clearing service. The balloting was completed yesterday (April 29th).

Mr. Haddon, Assistant Professor of Psychology, East Stroudsburg State College, is associated with the Monroe County Association for Resource and served recently on the board of directors of the Burnley Workshop of the Poconos. Mr. Marshall, a retired Sears-Roebuck executive, serves on the United Fund of Lehigh County and is Treasurer of the American Red Cross Chapter of Lehigh County.

Mrs. Harold S. Pond, Jr., Stroudsburg, was re-elected to begin another three-year term.

Tri-state agricultural meet set for state capitol Friday

HARRISBURG — Final plans for holding a tri-State meeting on the 1968 Wheat Program this Friday, May 3 at the Capitol Hotel in Harrisburg, have now been completed according to James W. White, Chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee.

The meeting which will include representatives from the States of Maryland, New York and Pennsylvania has been called by Secretary Orville L. Freeman to seek the views of farmers and trade people preliminary to establishing the 1969 national wheat acreage allotment.

Mr. White explained that the Harrisburg meeting is one of a series of ten such meetings called by Secretary Freeman across the nation for the first week in May. The meetings are to provide farmers and other interested people an opportunity to express their views and recommendations on prospective wheat supplies, production, and needs.

Consulting policy
The hearings continued USDA's policy of consulting with farmers and other interested parties on vital decisions as to the size and direction of national farm programs. The Secretary has indicated a frank appraisal of farmers and others on the production level needed for 1969 and its effect on farm prices is expected to provide important guidance in determining the 1969 wheat acreage allotment.

Details of the 1969 program are expected to be announced shortly after this series of meetings is completed.

The Pennsylvania ASC State Chairman will be in charge of the Harrisburg meeting. Attending will be the ASC State Committee Chairman and State Wheat Program Specialist from mentioned States, as well as ASCS Northeast Area Director, Harry A. Peters, and Kennard Stephens, Wheat Program Specialist from Washington. They will provide basic information on current wheat supplies and use.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

A wise man once observed that "The greatest tragedy that can befall a man is to get what he asks for." I'm not so sure about that, but I will say that the timing has a lot to do with how welcome a wish come true can be.

In the days when the children are small, waking for a two o'clock feeding, or restless with fever, or having to be dressed and fed and hurried off to school, to be able to sleep late in the morning would seem the ultimate in luxury.

Comes the day when the children are grown and gone, when the housework dwindles to a comfortable routine, and the day has more hours than a body likes to spend alone, and there is time to spare and to sleep as late as they like.

That's when they wake up the dawn and lie wide-eyed and worried, waiting for time to pass. At least that's been a complaint I've heard over and over again these past few weeks.

Maybe Daylight Saving Time, postponing the awakening light and the noisy birds, will help temporarily, but wouldn't it be nice if we could have a white elephant sale, excess time, excess pounds, excess energy?

The weary could buy the strength to sail through their tasks, while the restless could relax; the thin person could dispose the pounds where they were most becoming and the fat could enjoy dessert with a clear conscience; and the insomniac could trade mornings with someone who really needs the sleep.

Roman sari

Jewels emphasize the cerise, orange and shocking pink design of this formal sari ensemble, one of the fashions to be shown at the Monroe Council of Republican Women's fashion extravaganza at Vacation Valley on March 8 at 8 p.m. Designed by La Mendola of Rome the chiffon sari is worn over matching print silk pantaloons with a bracelet entwined around the bared arm; cost $2,000. The international fashion originals are being presented by Hess Brothers, Allentown. A dessert coffee will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Gardeners on duty at Preserve

STROUDSBURG — Serving as hostesses at the Bowman's Hill Wild Flower Preserve on May 1 were members of the Monroe County Garden Club, Mrs. Jacob Z. Hartman, president; Mrs. Benjamin Newslinger, Mrs. William Dievler, Mrs. Carolyn Smith, Mrs. Elmer Christine and Mrs. Elwood Grant.

This is in the midst of Violet Week, April 28 to May 4 when about 28 varieties are growing in their natural habitats.

During March more than 1,640 visitors were in the preserve, it was announced at the Spring Trail sponsors meeting by Oliver Stark, botanist of the Preserve.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Grant attended the sponsor's meeting in Washington Crossing State Park. Mrs. Grant displayed her conservation ecology exhibit, shown last month at the Monroe County Garden Club meeting. At the request of Mrs. Robert B. Taylor, chairman of the executive committee the display will be exhibited in Preserve Headquarters for a month.

Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Elmer Christine, conservation chairman of the local club, plan a May clean-up of the Poconos Laurel Trail. They will continue spreading natural mulch which resulted in plants in much better condition this year.

Guatemalan experiences are shared

STROUDSBURG — Slides and their experience as house parents in a mission school in Guatemala were shared by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Turner at the meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Arlington-Wesley Methodist Church.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Mary Post. Mrs. David Ward conducted the business meeting. Future plans include:

A white elephant sale on the church grounds, weather permitting, on Saturday, May 11, beginning at 4 p.m. Home made baked goods will be offered for sale as well as hot dogs and soda. Anyone wishing to have white elephants picked up may call Mrs. Marcus Schaefer.

A strawberry festival will be held on the church grounds on June 15 with definite plans to be announced later.

The May meeting will feature installation of officers at 7 p.m. and the program at 8:15 with a play by Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Rutt.

The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. James Owens; vice president, Mrs. DeVoe Reed; secretary, Mrs. Robert Bonser; treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Schoch.

Commission secretaries: Christian social relations, Mrs. Marcus Schaefer; missionary education, Mrs. David Ward; spiritual growth, Mrs. Ward Conover; local responsibility, Mrs. James Canfield; membership, Mrs. Alfred Decker; needlework circle, Mrs. Lawrence Ace; flowers and gifts, Mrs. Steward Walters; cards, Mrs. Herbert Pooley; sales items, Mrs. David Smith; Mrs. Russell Bachman; nominating committee, Mrs. Paul Goucher, chairman; Mrs. Earl Hughes and Mrs. Harry Armistage.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Floyd Frisbie and Mrs. Esther Frisbie.

Keller's Cemetery

CHERRY VALLEY — Plot owners and others interested are invited to a meeting of the Keller's Reformed Church Cemetery Assn. to be held Thursday night at 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Larsen, Cherry Valley.

Memorial service for Fire Co. Aux.

MOUNT POCONO — A memorial service for 30 deceased members of the Ladies Aux. of the Pocono Mountain Volunteer Fire Co. was presented at their April meeting with Mrs. Robert Altomose, president, conducting the service. Mrs. Elizabeth Matthews, chaplain, read the prayer. Mrs. Mary Schaefer was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Altomose was presented with a president's pin by her mother, Mrs. David Bishop, a past president.

It was announced that at the May meeting, a program on the preparation and use of frozen meat will be given, with the meat prepared served to those attending.

The May meeting will begin at 8:30 because of the change to Daylight Saving Time. Hostesses will be Mrs. Mary Jane Kresge, Mrs. Pat Johnson, Mrs. Marge Karolyi, Mrs. Peggy Kuhn, Mrs. Rose Kachmer and Mrs. Janet Knorr.

There were 43 members present at the April meeting.

Mary Ogden, bride-to-be, honored at tea

STROUDSBURG — Miss Mary L. Ogden was honored at a bridal tea on Sunday, given by Mrs. James M. Brennan in the Brennan home on Tanite Terrace, Stroudsburg.

Miss Ogden is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ogden of Stroudsburg R.D. 2, and will be married on May 4 to Earl Gottschall.

She received personal gifts from the guests. Tea was served by Miss Ellen Brennan, sister-in-law of the hostess, from a buffet table decorated in white and pink. White tapers and calla lilies formed the centerpiece.

Nine camps, PO of A at district meet

SAYLORSBURG — A district meeting of the Patriotic Order of Americans was held at the Saylorsburg firehall with Camp 208 as hosts.

District president, Virginia Simmons of East Stroudsburg, presided at the meeting with nine camps represented: 151, 241, 245, 259, 77, 323, 83, 201 and 208.

Eight past district presidents attended: Flora Garis, Anna Serfas, Grace Miller, Ethel Rinker, Helen Starnes, Margaret Burkholder, Virginia Simmons and Mildred Schall.

The next meeting will be held in Stroudsburg, in October, with Camp 289 as hosts.

A social hour with refreshments followed the meeting.

Zerbe-McHenry marriage here

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two college students were married on Saturday by Justice of the Peace Thomas Flynn, Smithfield Twp.

Eric S. Zerbe of Pine Grove and Susan E. McHenry of Norwood, who will be graduating from East Stroudsburg State College this spring, were attended by Diane Joyce of North Versailles and Carol Ann Reese of Whitehall.

Portland club plans rummage

PORTLAND — Plans for the rummage sale to be sponsored by the Woman's Club of Portland were discussed at the April meeting. The sale will be held May 9 and 10, Thursday night and all day Friday.

Goods should be brought to the firehall on the afternoon of May 9 for display. Baked goods will be sold on Friday.

1 p.m. at the Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg. Dessert at 1 will be followed by a program at 1:45 on "Anonymity and Community," developed by Mrs. Robert Dahmert in her devotions. Soloist will be Mrs. Carlee Jones.

A story in dialogue will raise problems to be discussed in an open forum led by Mrs. William Fizeite. The story, "Bridges in Bixton," will be narrated by Mrs. Harry Smith.

Reading parts will be Mrs. Douglas Danfelt, Mrs. Timothy Hudson, Mrs. William Wunder, Mrs. Edward Steinhauer, Mrs. Joseph Kernaghan, Mrs. Thomas Skularek and Mrs. William Giles.

They will represent people in many of the groups which make up a community.

All women of the county are invited to join in the fellowship meeting.

Works of three composers to be featured during East Stroudsburg concert today

EAST STROUDSBURG — The music of Leclair, Mozart and Brahms will be featured in the concert to be given by members of the Curtis String Quartet and Pianist Vladimir Sokoloff today at East Stroudsburg High School.

The concert will begin at 8:30 p.m. and is free of charge. Three members of the quartet — Jascha Brodsky, violin; Max Arnoff, viola, and Orlando Cole, cello — will open the program with Leclair's Trio Sonata in "D" Major, number eight.

Jean Marie Leclair, a violinist and composer, was born in Lyons, France, in 1697, and was murdered, under mysterious circumstances, in Paris in 1764. He started his professional career as a ballet master, but changed to the study of the violin, where he excelled so completely that he was named court violinist in Paris.

The Leclair trio has four movements — Largo, Allegro, Adagio and Allelu.

Second work on the program will be the Piano Quartet in E Flat Major, K. 493, by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Mozart, born in Salzburg, Austria, in 1756, lived a brief 35 years, dying in 1791, under circumstances that today are beginning to be questioned. He left behind him a staggering number of completed works—626—in almost all musical forms. He seemed to have had a special interest in works for chamber music groups, of which the Piano Quartet is an outstanding example. Mozart's quartet is divided into three movements, an

Deeds recorded

STROUDSBURG — Three deeds totaling nearly $60,000 were among those filed Tuesday in the Register and Recorder's office of the Monroe County Courthouse.

According to the papers three deeds are: Henry G. LeMaire and Ruth K. LeMaire, Mt. Pocono, to Ivan and Jean Koberlein, Pocono Lake, $25,000.

Dewey A. and Anna Jane Meckes, Hamilton Township, to Hans Christian and Ardella Mae Rothfelder, Saylors Lake, $23,000.

John and Martha L. Williams, East Stroudsburg to John and Anna E.C. Williams, East Stroudsburg, $10,000.

3-car crash near Milford

MILFORD — A 31-year-old Milford woman was slightly injured Tuesday at 5:55 p.m. in a three-car crash on Rt. 209 three miles north of Milford, State Police at Milford said.

Injured and taken to St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis, N.Y., where she was treated and released was Patricia M. Gelderman of Milford. The other drivers were Ivan Vasilev, 30, of Port Jervis, N.Y., and James R. Mitsdarfer, 29, of Williamsport.

According to police, Vasilev made a U turn in the highway and he pulled into the path of the Gelderman car. The force of the crash knocked the Vasilev car into the path of a tractor pulling a mobile home driven by Mitsdarfer.

Total damage is estimated at $1,200.

Woman hurt in crash

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Twp. Police investigated a two-car crash Sunday at 10:35 p.m. on Clearview Ave. in Stroud Twp. One person was injured and taken to General Hospital of Monroe County where she was treated and released.

Injured was Mrs. Betty L. Marsh, 39, of 611 Pleasant Ave., Stroudsburg. Mrs. Marsh was a driver of one of the cars.

T. Gary Courtwright, 26, of Stroudsburg R.D. 1, driving a Yellow Cab, was the second driver.

According to Stroud Twp. Police the cars were traveling in opposite directions and as they crested a knoll they collided.

Total damage is estimated at $1,300.

Grin of 84-year vintage

Former President Harry S. Truman will celebrate his 84th birthday this month and he manages a slight grin after getting a haircut for the big occasion in his home town of Independence, Mo. George Miller is Truman's favorite barber.

Look of frustration

Denver police drag away one of 30 student-demonstrators from the University of Denver registrar's office. The sit-in was sparked by the administration's refusal to allow graduate students to run for student offices. A crowd of about 400 watched the proceedings.

Red faces—no permit, no speech

Robert Kennedy gets a confetti shower during an appearance in downtown Indianapolis. An enthusiastic crowd of several thousand were packed into Monument Circle to see the New York senator. However, he was unable to speak because his staff had neglected to obtain a city permit.

Smile for a job well done

David Graf, Graf, Ray Page, chief of the Department of Public Instruction; Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.) and the president. Graf was selected for his "superior ability to impart knowledge and inspire students with love of learning."

Ann Landers

Something of value

Dear Ann Landers: I just finished the column in which you staunchly defend the medical profession. The reader cites a number of instances involving members of her own family where doctors goofed and you very politely tell her that no human is infallible and that, unfortunately, when a physician makes a mistake somebody becomes terribly ill or dies. This is advice?

I am enclosing in my letter to you a clipping from the London Sunday Times. It reports one of the most interesting errors of all time. A surgeon in Birmingham, England, amputated the wrong leg. I agree with you, Ann, that no human is infallible and I can understand certain kinds of "mistakes" but this is ridiculous. Have you the courage and decency to print my letter? I shall watch the paper with great interest.

SAN JOSE READER

Dear Jose: Thank you for your letter and for the clipping. Outrageous mistake? Unquestionably so. But the comments of the 75-year-old widow who is now legless were far more deserving of notice than the doctor's mistake. She said, "Whoever it was who made the operating error probably saved hundreds of lives before he got to me. I happened to be the unlucky one. But, as I told them at the time, we all make mistakes and I am not going to have one word said against him."

What a sterling example of true charity! That this woman was able not only to forgive, but to defend the man demonstrates mercy in its best sense. Thank you for sending the clipping. It contained something of value for all of us.

Dear Ann Landers: Do you have anything in your files on blasted horn blasters? I refer to addle-brained mothers who have the car pool for the week and rush around picking up the kids in the neighborhood. They start to toot the horn the minute they turn the corner even though the kid lives at the end of the block. Am I a grouchy old bag because I resent being honked out of bed at 7:30 a.m.? What about the people that are ill, or work night shifts and don't need to get up until noon? Aren't they entitled to their rest?

The whole thing boils down to decent manners. How can parents expect their children to be polite when they go around behaving in such a rude, inconsiderate fashion? And please don't say these folks should be arrested for disturbing the peace. Why should it be up to the law to teach manners? I feel that YOU, Ann Landers, are the gal who can do it. Please try.

HONK WEARY

Dear Honk: You vastly overrate the power of this woman. But here's your letter and my added plea — Give the later risers a break, girls. Some people don't have to get up at the crack of dawn. Let 'em sleep, will ya?

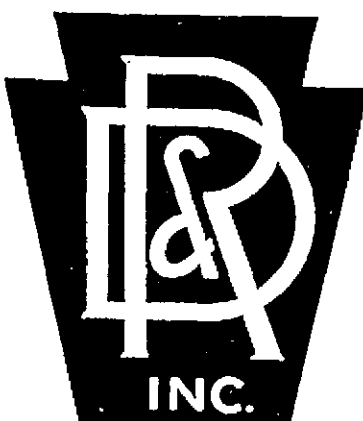

Confidential to: The Fence-Sitter: The man has all the qualities of a dog — except loyalty. Give him a Methodist handshake and send him on his way.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ada Poortstra, Trailers collide on Rt. 611; Eastburg, dies at 91

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Ada Poortstra, 91, widow of Rieder Poortstra of 86 Brown St., East Stroudsburg, died Wednesday in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Born in Holland, she was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Floetstra, and had lived in the Stroudsburgs the past 37 years.

Mrs. Poortstra was a member of the First Baptist Church, East Stroudsburg, and the Mizpah Bible Class of the church.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Evermon, Ashland, and Mrs. James Lorenzel, East Stroudsburg; two sons, the Rev. Raymond P. Poortstra, East Stroudsburg, and Gary Douma, Troy Hills, N. J.; nine grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Saturday at 11 a.m. in the Lanterman Funeral Home with the Rev. Norman R. Savage officiating.

Burial will be in Laurelwood Cemetery.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home on Friday after 7 p.m.

MOUNT POCONO — Two tractor-trailers collided Tuesday at 10:30 p.m. on Rt. 611 in Mount Pocono, injuring both drivers and causing damages estimated between $30,000 and $40,000.

Mount Pocono Police Chief James Carey said full details are not known as yet because he has been unable to talk to either of the drivers. One is hospitalized and the other was treated for broken ribs and released.

The drivers were James Breiner, 33, of Box 41, Fern-dale, and Kenneth Tiffany of Nichols, N.Y. Tiffany, after being released from the hospital, left the area.

According to Chief Carey, both vehicles were traveling in the same direction when Breiner ran into the rear of the Tiffany rig.

The force of the impact threw Breiner to the highway. He is in General Hospital of Monroe County and is being treated for facial cuts and a broken arm. His condition is good.

Breiner's rig was loaded with cases of oil and Tiffany was driving a tanker trailer.

Oil from the Breiner rig was spilled onto the highway.

The woman who wants her bread—like her eggs—Strictly fresh is the woman who insists on Batter Whipped Sunbeam Bread. She knows that Sunbeam is mixed in small batches and whipped at high speeds for finer, no-holes texture that keeps out staling air. She knows that Sunbeam comes to her full of oven-fresh goodness and stays that way, in its air-tight plastic wrap. Have you discovered what a difference there can be in bread? If not, go Sunbeam ... for freshness' sake!

Stamina key attribute of ESSC's incoming president

By PETE GRADY
Pocono Record Reporter

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dr. Frank D. Sills, incoming president of East Stroudsburg State College, knows better than anyone else that stamina wins the race in the last few years.

Stamina has guided him down the green fields of sports, over the hurdles of mental strain when he graduated second in his class at Penn State University, and up to the threshold of his latest and highest post: president of ESSC.

It's one of his favorite words, stamina. Staying power, the capacity to endure strain—this is stamina. He didn't develop stamina overnight, mental and physical stamina. He must have worked at it night and day ever since he knew the meaning and power of the word.

From his waiter days waiting on tables as a Penn State freshman in 1934 to playing handball an hour a day in his home away from home, the new Koehler Fieldhouse at ESSC. Stamina kept him going.

An added incentive to his daily handball sessions with ESSC students is the thrill that comes in beating these students. How often does he beat them?

"Ask them," he replied with an enigmatic smile.

He played football and basketball at Lewistown (Pa.) High in the early thirties while the depression was at rock bottom.

When he graduated from Penn State in 1938 he was a shade off three, the highest possible numerical mark. Required graduating credits were 134. He lacked on an extra 19 credits in biological sciences.

In his sophomore year at Penn State he worked in what was then known as the recreation hall. Today it is the fieldhouse. He was a waterfront director for summer camps in Pennsylvania and New York. He received the Psi Epsilon Kappa award given for scholarship and activities in his senior year.

After graduation, he taught and coached fatherless boys at Stevens Trade School in Lancaster, Pa., from 1938 through 1943. His salary was $1,700 a year, but after the trade school deducted $400 for his on campus apartment, he was left with $1,300.

He worked on his Masters Degree at night and during the weekends while at Stevens Trade School. Every Saturday he had to get up at 4 a.m. and drive to Penn State for graduate classes.

In 1943 he went in the Navy as an Ensign and received a spot promotion as Lt. Commander in 1945 for his work in rehabilitating paraplegics at Bethesda Naval Hospital, Maryland.

He was in charge of 36 paraplegics in one ward. "Some of them fell five times in five steps," he said, "and they would get up each time and start all over."

Again he was referring to the magic word: stamina.

He wrote his Masters Thesis, "The Restoration of Muscle Function" while at Bethesda. When he was discharged he returned to Penn State to complete his masters.

After receiving his PhD from State University of Iowa, he was put in charge of the university's Adapted Physical Education Program.

Special programs

He and his students worked on special programs in crippled children's hospitals, Veterans' Hospitals and the University Hospital. He was also in charge of the university's research laboratory.

While at Iowa the Maytag Washer Co., asked him to set up a display on the history of laundering in the Science and Industries Exhibition, Chicago. His research department received new equipment from Maytag as a result of his work on the exhibit.

When he and Mrs. Sills came to East Stroudsburg in 1959 they both took in stride the big change from a large university to a small town college.

ESSC still might be a small town college but its growth in the Health and Physical Education Department from 1959 to 1967 shows an increase from 10 men and six women on the faculty to 18 men and 12 women.

In 1959 there were 450 Health and Phys. Ed. students compared to 640 in 1967. In 1962 graduate programs were initiated in three major departments: Science, Social Science and Health and Physical Education.

Today Dr. Sills stresses a rounded Liberal Arts education for B. S. and B. A. majors at ESSC. Everywhere he went on the campus Tuesday he was warmly congratulated by his peers with a firm handshake and students who gave him a smile and a wave.

As one of his associates said,

"He's going to be on the go for the next six weeks."

Head of conference

Having just returned as president of an educational conference in Washington D.C. he left Tuesday for Indiana University of Pennsylvania where he will serve on a Department of Pennsylvania Instruction evaluation team.

Thursday he's off to Penn State and a meeting of the American College of Sport's Medicine.

Friday it's a meeting with President Leroy J. Koehler and the ESSC board of trustees at the state board of trustees in Harrisburg.

But he still had time Tuesday to say that an informed student body is a necessity and that a good rounded education in the humanities and sciences is the cornerstone of any good college's curriculum.

Council hires summer help

Stroudsburg tables tax

STROUDSBURG — A possible income tax for Stroudsburg residents was postponed Wednesday night when Stroudsburg Council tabled action on the proposal.

Borough Manager Harold Snyder, in presenting the items on the agenda, noted that despite public advertisements, no one came to the council meeting to discuss the tax, and it was then moved to table the question until May 8.

The tax, labeled Ordinance 493, would have provided for a one per cent levy on earned income for all borough residents and local employees.

Under discussion by Monroe

County school districts and municipalities during the past month, the East Stroudsburg school district decided not to adopt the wage tax, but the East Stroudsburg council has not yet arrived at a decision.

Stroudsburg children, however, may look forward to a wonderful summer. Council approved the hiring of ten personnel for the playground and swimming pool, which will officially open on June 15.

Recreation program

Director for the summer will be Samuel S. Everett, assisted by George Metropoulos, with salaries set at $100 and $75 per week, respectively. Life guards will be Charles Winters, Katherine Hedgemon, Betsy Gross, and Joy Smith.

Anthony Romano will be life-guard and Phyllis Cruise will be in charge of the playground. In the basketball, Christine Winters, Susan Fisher, and Renee Dean will be on duty. All three will be paid $25 per week.

J. C. Martens, co-owner of Mount Airy, dies

SWIFTWATER — John C. Martens, who, with his wife, Suzanne, owned and operated the famous Mount Airy Lodge in Swiftwater since 1936, died in his home on Wednesday morning.

Under Mr. Martens' direction Mount Airy Lodge has grown from a small resort to a nationally known resort.

Mr. Martens was born in Holland and came to this country at an early age. He was a member of St. Mary of the Mount Roman Catholic Church in Mount Pocono, the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, Knights of Columbus and was given the honor of being elevated as a Knight of Malta by Pope John in 1965.

Surviving besides his wife are an adopted daughter and son, Mrs. Frances Kurtz, Miami, Fla., and Carl, now serving in the U.S. Army; a grandson, Gary Grossman, Los Angeles, Calif.; one brother, Adrian Martens, Emmaus, and several nieces and nephews.

A concelebrated mass will be said in St. Mary's Church, Mount Pocono, on Saturday at 11:30 a.m.

Friends may call at the William H. Clark Funeral Home, 1003 Main St., Stroudsburg, on Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. and Friday from 3 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

A Rosary service will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the funeral home.

Early morning fire damages S-burg home

STROUDSBURG — Fire of undetermined origin early Wednesday morning caused extensive damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jess F. Haynes, 1416 Glen Brook Rd., Stroudsburg.

According to Stroud Twp. Fire Chief Lester Rice, Mrs. Haynes was awakened about 1:30 a.m. and was coughing from dense smoke in the house.

She left the home and crossed the street to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Abelfoff, who turned in the alarm.

The living room was ablaze when firemen arrived, Rice said.

There was extensive smoke and water damage throughout the house. Rice believes the fire smoldered for about an hour before it was detected.

Mrs. Haynes was overcome by smoke and firemen administered oxygen to her. She did not require additional treatment.

Scholars abound in Davis family

STROUDSBURG — Three valedictorians in one family is unbelievable. But, three in four years is too much.

However, the tale of triple valedictorians under one roof is true, without a doubt.

Barbara Paula Davis, now a junior at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., was valedictorian at Stroudsburg High in 1965. She is now studying psychology.

Deborah Lynn Davis was the number one student in the same school in 1966. Deborah is now studying occupational therapy at the University of Pennsylvania.

Victoria Gayle Davis was named valedictorian at

Stroud Twp. tables earned income tax

STROUDSBURG — Amid charges of "I'm sick and tired" the way Stroud Township is being run, Democratic supervisor James A. Somers Jr. demanded a meeting between area municipalities and school districts on the controversial one per cent earned income tax.

Supported by 21 rate taxpayers attending Wednesday night's Stroud Township Board of Supervisor's meeting, Somers and the taxpayers forced the township to call a meeting with other municipalities to discuss the income tax.

The action was spurred when Harold Albert, secretary-treasurer, moved to table action on enacting the income tax until later this month. Stroud supervisors had previously adopted a resolution to advertise an intent to pass the earned income tax.

Both Albert and Hallett at first took no action on a motion by Somers to initiate a mass meeting with other municipalities and the Stroudsburg School District to discuss the tax.

Albert will telephone representatives of municipalities comprising the Stroudsburg School District, in addition to the East Stroudsburg Borough Council, to discuss the tax.

The taxpayers attending last night's session questioned the need for the tax in Stroud Township and also complained of the double taxation involved.

Immediately after Albert moved to table action on the income tax, a man asked why. "We are delaying action to find out what the consensus is in other communities," Albert said.

William Crooks said he was under the understanding that Stroud Township would only enact the tax if the school district did.

Somers said Crooks was right. "It looks to me there's being a lot of acting done with our tax money," Crooks said and suggested a meeting with other municipalities and the school district "to iron this out."

"I'm opposed to this tax and I want it on record that I'm opposed," Somers said.

Somers told the gathering that both Albert and Hallett were prepared to enact the tax during the meeting and added that the appearance of the taxpayers and his objections undoubtedly forced them to wait.

Somers also urged, "When election day comes around, come to the polls and remember this." He was cheered with, "Don't worry, we will."

"Things have started to change and will continue to change," Somers said. "I'm sick and tired the way it's being run. It's dog eat dog."

Somers said both Albert and Hallett are waiting for another municipality to enact the income tax first "then they'll do it."

In a prepared statement, Bruce Frassinelli of Youngwood Dr. also opposed the tax and argued that "I think it is a brazen reversal of the supervisors previous position that the tax would be enacted if the school board enacted it."

"It now seems the school board will not enact this tax, yet the supervisors are very seriously considering its enactment anyway," Frassinelli said.

"It has been regrettable for the taxpayers that the earned income tax has become a battle of personalities," he continued, "the school board charging that municipal officials should not take a full 50 per cent share, and the municipal officials countering that the school board should be more economical."

Frassinelli also argued a meeting with school officials and suggested, as an alternative to the income tax, enactment of an occupation tax. He was applauded following the statement.

The Stroudsburg School District, facing a $200,000 deficit this year, proposed the tax and asked municipalities not to take their entitled one-half per cent.

Stroud Township later announced that it would take its entitled one-half per cent. As a result, the school directors decided to turn to other revenue sources, arguing that it would not get enough to meet the deficit if the municipalities take their one-half per cent.

In other action, supervisors last night also unanimously increased the salary of Police Commissioner Lester Rice from $2,650 per hour to $3,000.

Supervisors also hired two more patrolmen. They are Paul Cihurs, former Stroudsburg policeman and Richard DeFemer of Kresgeville. The two men will work a minimum 35 hours per week and a maximum 39.

The township now has six policemen and will begin 24-hour service Sunday, according to Somers.

Roger Geer

Roger Geer wins Merit scholarship

SWIFTWATER — Roger Geer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Geer, Mountainhome, has been awarded a National Merit Scholarship which he will use at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa.

Geer plans to attend Bucknell and study electrical engineering.

He is a senior at Pocono Mountain High School. He had been previously nominated as one of the 14,000 finalists who remained in the Merit Scholarship competition until the final selection.

The thirteenth annual Merit Program began in February 1967 when 796,650 students in 17,757 schools took the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. This two and one-half hour test of educational development covers five areas: English usage, social studies, reading, natural science, mathematics and word usage. The selection process finally produced approximately 2,900 winners of the Merit Scholarships.

Rev. Dennis steps down

Easton pastor heads Lutherans

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Rev. John Steinbrink, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Easton, was elected Dean of the 40-congregation Eastern Lutheran District Wednesday night during a meeting in the Grace Evangelistic Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg.

Elected secretary was the Rev. Herbert Mohlenhoff, of Easton.

Rev. Dennis, pastor of Bangor's Trinity Lutheran Church and a native of St. John's, Stroudsburg, conducted his last district meeting Wednesday as District Dean.

By constitution limitation, he cannot succeed himself. Since districts were formed 10 years ago, he has been either secretary or dean of the Eastern District.

"What is happening in staid, dependable old congregations of suburbs, towns and cities is fantastic. Once an image of immobility, more and more does their leadership reflect an awakening of purpose," Rev. Dennis said.

"Old secure patterns may be threatened by our times, but there is sufficient strength here to meet new challenges for dedicated Christians," said the Rev. Dennis.

Rev. Dennis told a large group of worshippers about his change in views of the Eastern District.

"I once viewed the area of the Eastern District as a sleeping giant to be awakened for the cause of Jesus Christ. I think the image has changed greatly," he said.

Active in area and Bangor community affairs as well as synod-wide activity, Dennis has been elected twice to represent the region at national conventions of the Lutheran Church of America. He has appeared in several editions of "Who's Who in the East."

A graduate of Stroudsburg High School, Muhlenberg College, the Philadelphia Seminary and its graduate school, he is the son of the former Mayor and Mrs. Earl D. Dennis of Scott St., Stroudsburg.

He is married and the father of three children.

Pastors William P. Wunder and William Leopold arranged for Wednesday's meeting in Dean Dennis's home community.

Wounded GI hit in eyes

SAYLORSBURG — Lester Hoagland of Saylorburg R.D. 1, has received word that his son, Sgt. Barry Hoagland, who was injured last week in combat in Vietnam, is now in a hospital in Japan.

Sgt. Hoagland's address is 108th General Hospital, Ward E-2, APO San Francisco, Calif. 96303.

Sgt. Hoagland has lost the sight in his right eye. He was hit by metal fragments in both eyes.

Early fisher arrested, fined

EAST STROUDSBURG — George Klein of 172 Lenox Ave., East Stroudsburg, was arrested at 3 a.m. on April 13 by Fish Warden Walter Burkhardt.

Klein was charged with fishing before the season opened. He had in his possession one fish when arrested.

He paid $25 fine and $11 costs to Smithfield Twp. Justice of the Peace Thomas Flynn Tuesday night and was released.

Ann Ferenc, sister of mayor, dies

STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Ann Small Ferenc, 45, of 1655 Wallace St., Stroudsburg, died Tuesday night in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Born in East Stroudsburg, she was a daughter of the late Benjamin and Bessie Lessig Small and had been a resident of the Stroudsburgs her lifetime.

She was a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School Class of 1940 and had attended East Stroudsburg State College.

She was a member of Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg.

Surviving are her husband, Joseph J. Ferenc, at home; one daughter, Miss Stephanie A. Ferenc, at home; one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Grannacher, Norristown; two brothers, Benjamin Small of Staten Island, N. Y., and Mayor Joseph H. Small, Stroudsburg.

Funeral services will be held Saturday 2 p.m. in the Lutheran Funeral Home, East Stroudsburg, with the Rev. William F. Wunder officiating.

Burial will be in Prospect Cemetery, East Stroudsburg. Friends and relatives may call Friday 7 to 9 p.m. at the funeral home.

McBean stars in Pirate win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Al McBean hauled his fourth victory, a six-hitter, and Donn Clendenon cracked a run-scoring single and home run Wednesday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Chicago Cubs 4-0 in a game protested by Cub Manager Leo Durocher.

McBean overcame some early shakiness in going the distance for the fourth time.

The Pirates got a run in the first inning when Roberto Clemente tripled off the right field wall with two away and scored on a single by Clendenon.

Cub starter Rich Nye gave up two harmless hits in the second inning, then put the Bucs down in order until Clendenon opened the seventh inning by clubbing a towering home run over the left-field wall, his second of the season. Manny Mota doubled in two runs in the ninth.

Durocher announced the Cubs were playing under protest, apparently because he thought Pittsburgh Manager Larry Shepard made two trips to the mound to talk to McBean in the eighth inning.

Shepard appeared to leave the 18-foot circle around the mound and then re-entered it to talk to his pitcher.

Umpire Shag Crawford said that when catcher Jerry May was injured by a foul tip in the top of the eighth, Shepard asked for and received his permission to go to the mound and confer with McBean.

Steve Hamilton, who relieved loser Mel Stottlemyre, 3-2, allowed three runs in the seventh. Powell drove in two with a bases-loaded single and Johnson followed with another run-scoring single.

Taylor's triple tops Mets in 11th

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Taylor walloped a bases-loaded triple in the 11th inning—his fourth hit of the game—helping Philadelphia to a 7-2 victory over the New York Mets Wednesday night.

It was the 20th career victory over the Mets by Larry Jackson, who had them shut out until the ninth inning.

Reliever Ron Taylor walked the first two batters in the 11th and then another walk by Billy Short loaded the bases before Taylor's shot cleared them. Johnny Callison's double and sacrifice fly provided two more runs.

Jackson left for a pinch hitter in the 11th and ran his career record to 20-1 against the Mets. Only Don Drysdale with a 21-5 career mark, has beaten the Mets more times than Jackson.

Ron Swoboda's two-out single scored pinch runner Don Bosch with the tying run as the Mets rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth and tied the score against Jackson.

Warriors nip Huskies, 3-2

BLOOMSBURG — Veteran East Stroudsburg State College hurler John Grobelny fanned 14 and drove in a pair of runs Wednesday to lead the Warriors to a 3-2 diamond decision over Bloomsburg State on the loser's field.

Grobelny struck out 10 of the first 12 batters he faced after the Huskie lead-off man laced a first pitch single for one of the five Huskie hits.

Grobelny drove in the two runs in the second inning with a sharp double aiding in the win to top ESSC's record to 4-5.

Bloomsburg failed to score an extra base hit while three Warriors lined doubles in the Pennsylvania State Conference win.

The Warriors will take on King's College of Wilkes-Barre Saturday on the Normal Hill diamond in a non-league game.

Nobody's laughing at Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — They don't run up to the plate to swing against Mets' pitchers anymore now that the New Yorkers' staff has become the talk of the baseball world.

Let the figures speak for themselves.

The Mets, who rarely lead in any department except errors and games lost, now top the majors in team earned run average and the National League in shutout victories.

Going into Wednesday night's game against Philadelphia, the Met hurlers had a collective ERA of 1.57 and four shutouts. In the latter category, they were tied with the American League's Cleveland Indians and Washington Senators.

In the 16 games played, the Mets' staff has yielded only 48 bases on balls and struck out 115 batters. It has given up only four homers while the Mets themselves have hit 13. In three games, Mets' pitchers have gone all the way without yielding even one walk.

In 1967, their pitchers posted only 10 shutouts all year, finished with the eighth highest NL ERA at 3.73 and yielded 124 homers, a figure topped in the league only by the Chicago Cubs.

Last season, though, the club had only one ace, rookie Tom Seaver. This year, two other youngsters, Jerry Koosman and Nolan Ryan, have joined Seaver in coming up with a number of impressive performances. Veleran Don Cardwell also has been generally effective.

Koosman's earned run average is 1.03, Ryan's 1.42, Seaver's 1.59 and Cardwell's 2.05, the latter after blanking Philadelphia 1-0 Tuesday for his first victory against two losses.

Koosman, the only southpaw among the four, has a 4-0 record and two shutouts. He has walked nine and fanned 27. Seaver is 1-1, has yielded only one base on balls and struck out 17 batsmen.

Ryan, 1-2, has struck out 26 and walked 11. He combined with reliever Danny Frisella to blank Houston on April 14.

Seaver's 12th-inning triple drove in the tie-breaking run Wednesday night and St. Louis beat Houston 3-1.

White Sox win, 4-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Luis Aparicio hit a two-run homer and Tommy John struck out 12 batters as the Chicago White Sox beat Washington 4-1 Wednesday night.

John, who has two of Chicago's three victories this year, shut the Senators out on three hits for the first eight innings, but Washington scored in the ninth when Ken McMullen doubled and scored on Ron Hansen's single.

John, surpassed his high of nine strikeouts last year, giving up singles in the first, sixth and eighth innings until the ninth.

iner said the contract for Munson calls for an estimated $365,000 over the term.

Munson was the regular Rams quarterback until hurt in 1966 at San Francisco. Gabriel took over. Bill refused to sign a contract last year so he could play out the option and seek a job with a club needing a regular.

General Manager Russ Thomas of the Lions negotiated the deal with Munson and the Rams in Los Angeles.

"This is a trade designed to help the Rams offense and was made with winning a title in 1968 in mind," said Los Angeles Coach George Allen, who termed Studstill the key man.

He pointed out that in addition to being a top receiver, Studstill averaged 41.5 yards for 36 punts last season. Studstill, 29, hails from Houston.

Watkins, 31, formerly of Iowa State, ran back punts and kick-offs and gained 361 yards rushing on 106 attempts in 1967. Plum, 33, completed 86 of 172 passes for 325 yards and four touchdowns with only eight intercepted.

What fight?

OAKLAND — At approximately 7:40 at night Saturday in the Oakland Coliseum Arena, a fight broke out.

This was a good thing for the people who had paid $50 to see one.

Unfortunately it was 50 rows behind them. I wasn't scored on any card and won't count in the heavyweight standings.

Neither, I have to think, will the one in the ring. If this was a heavyweight title fight, a Guatemalan revolution is World War III. They may peddle the fight film to hospitals for insomniacs.

I was so unable to stay awake for it, I now turn the microphone over to the renowned knockout artist (he has decorated more canvases than the Dutch masters) "Cuts" Conway to describe the fight for us.

Question — Cuts, what did you think of the fight?

Answer — Well, when they two guys came in without shaving I thought it was the second act of Oberammergau. When they started to fight, I was sure of it.

Q — Cuts, what was your impression of Quarry's strategy?

A — Well, he had to cut off the ring on a cut like Ellis but turned out he didn't have the tools for it.

Q — Fast Feet?

A — No, a saw.

Q — Would you say that Quarry "telegraphs" his punches?

A — No I would say looking at them he uses fourth-class mail. He marks them "Addressee Unknown. A couple of them he would do better to drop in a bottle and toss in the sea.

Q — Would you say Quarry models his fight style after John L. Sullivan?

A — Well, any dead man will do. I would say he reminded me more of Beethoven.

Q — The musician?

A — No, the statue in the park. Jerry's going to have to learn to move more or birds will perch on him. I seen a guy trying to scratch a match on him in the third round.

Q — What about Ellis' fight plan?

A — I think it was drawn up by a guy who owes him money. Here he was fighting a guy who looked like he was waiting for a bus and he keeps coming to him.

Q — What about Quarry?

A — Well, Quarry couldn't seem to make up his mind whether to hit him in the head or the body. So he split the difference and didn't hit him anywhere. What was he doing out there — taking a vote?

Q — Well, I thought some of those punches out there SOUNDED hard?

A — Listen, any punch you can HEAR is no good. The good punches you don't hear. The bleeding you can't see is the worst — the cuts you can't get at with a swab. You beat a man like the cops in the back room. The only thing you should HEAR with a punch is a moan, not a slap. Red blood won't hurt you none. It's when it turns black that a man is in trouble. Quarry should punch a man where the only thing you hear is a gurgle.

Q — Did you score the fight?
A — I couldn't, the action was so slow it took me five rounds to figure out which one was the referee.

Q — You mean it was that slow?

A — Slow? The last time I seen anything that slow it was set to violins.

Q — Well, what did you think of the judge who called it a draw?

A — He was like Quarry. He was neutral.

Q — If Quarry fights Ellis again what should he learn?

A — Radar. He missed so much that, when he spit in the 14th round, I was surprised it hit the floor.

Q — But aren't they both counter punchers?

A — I don't know. I never saw them eat. I guess they punch counters if the waitress brings them the wrong thing. What you need are people punchers.

Q — Don't you think Ellis will be one of our great champions?

A — Well, I never had a clock on him. What was his last time tonight in the sprints.

Q — How do you rank him with Dempsey and Tunney?

A — I rank him on a par with them. Of course, they're 70 years old.

Q — Then you don't feel they're $50 fighters.

A — Listen, you can see a better fight down in my corner tavern for a minus 25 cents.

Q — A minus 25 cents?

A — Yeah. All you gotta do is steal a guy's beer.

Q — Do you think Cassius Muhammad Ali could beat these guys after three years in prison?

A — Listen, he could beat these guys after three minutes in the electric chair.

Fish stocking starts today

New Eskimo

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — The Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference announced Tuesday the signing of David Cooper, a linebacker and defensive tackle from the University of Arkansas.

Cards bomb Cavaliers

CRESCO — Pocono Mountain spotted East Stroudsburg High a short-lived 1-0 first inning lead Wednesday before coming alive with 15 runs in three innings to hammer the visitors 17-3 in a Lehigh-Northampton League game.

Pocono Mountain easily erased the early Cavalier lead with a three-run second frame, a pair in the third and a 10-run spree in the fourth.

The Cavaliers, suffering their second league loss in a row could only manage a run in the second and last inning in the loss.

Cardinal pitcher Doug Miller pitched six innings in gaining the win and contributed a home run and double in batting in four of his team's runs to help with his win.

East Stroudsburg's Dave Repsher, far off the form he used in an early season one-hitter suffered the loss in the Cardinal 17-hit, 17-run attack.

Emmaus nine stops Mounts

STROUDSBURG — A late rally by Stroudsburg High Wednesday failed to overcome an 8-1 Emmaus lead as the Mountaineers dropped a Lehigh Valley game to the visitors, 8-6.

Emmaus erupted for five runs in the fifth frame and held on to the lead despite a five-run Stroudsburg effort in the final inning.

Stroudsburg out-hit the visitors, 10-4 but failed to capitalize on the hits in dropping their sixth season game.

ESSC netmen face M-ville today

EAST STROUDSBURG — The East Stroudsburg State tennis team faces the biggest threat in Pennsylvania State College competition that it has had in almost three years when it takes on Millersville in an away match today.

The Warriors have won all four league encounters this season and have a three-season streak of 27 going for them.

Overall, the netters' record is 8-5, winning the last six in a row.

Millersville has a record of 7-0 coming into the match with most of their victories coming by 9-0 whitewashes. Against common opponents, the Lancaster County school has shown crushing results, while ESSC has been squeaking by with 5-4 and 6-3 scores.

The winner of the match will be considered the favorites in the fast approaching State College tournament that will be held at East Stroudsburg ay 11 and 12.

ESSC's lineup will consist of Merv Heller, 9-4 in singles, at the number one slot. Either Don Mathis, 9-4, or Rem Becker, 6-7, will play at number three. Craig Whiteley, 7-6, will hold down number four and Fred Baatz, 2-4, at five. The number six position will be played by newcomer to the lineup, Andy Muller, who will replace regular number six man Lou Caporaso for this match.

Nothing to worry about?

Pirates fall into early season slump

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates stumbled into May Wednesday with a lowly .230 team batting average and an amazingly fine pitching record.

But that doesn't mean baseball's top hitting club of the past two years has become a bunch of listless wonders.

It's just an early-season slump and nothing to worry about, says Manager Larry Shepard. He intends to let his regulars hit their way out of it. "We have to win with them," he said Wednesday. "I don't know anybody who could do any better."

Only the pitching staffs earned run average of 2.65—contrasted with 3.74 last year when it was ninth in the National League—enabled the Pirates to split their first 16 games.

The good pitching has come from others than Jim Bunning, who was acquired in an off-season trade and was expected to be the leader of the staff.

In fact, holdovers Al McBean and Bob Veale have been more effective than Bunning. Only trouble is that Veale has an 0-3 record to go with a 1.79 ERA because the Pirates haven't scored any runs for him.

In five starts, Veale has lost by scores of 3-2, 1-0 and 2-1 and twice wound up with no decisions in games where he allowed one run.

"They'll get runs for me eventually," Veale says confidently, remembering last year when he won his first six decisions with 37 runs behind him.

Course of Vietnam war altered

Gulf of Tonkin Resolution spawned in day of crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the crisis-filled election year summer of 1964, tranquil days were few indeed, and Tuesday, Aug. 4, was never destined to be among them.

It dawned a day of crisis, at home and abroad.

In Washington that morning, President Johnson and the National Security Council prepared to discuss a new outbreak of violence on Cyprus.

Two hundred miles to the north, in New Jersey, the citizens of Jersey City reeled from another night of racial rioting that left 15 injured.

Far to the south, the bodies of three civil rights workers, murdered June 22 by a white mob, would be found buried on a Mississippi farm.

There were the major events that demanded public attention on that Tuesday, but before it was over the war in Vietnam would surge to the forefront.

This was to be the day that the United States stopped advising the South Vietnamese how to fight, and started doing it.

A total involvement in the Vietnam war began at 10:39 a.m., Washington time, by official log. It was 9:39 p.m. in the Gulf of Tonkin and the U.S. destroyers Maddox and C. Turner Joy reported they were being attacked by North Vietnamese patrol craft.

In Washington, the secretaries of state and defense had been at their desks more than two hours when the word came. At 11, while the destroyers were still firing into the dark night and dodging torpedoes that showed on their detection gear, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara telephoned the news to President Johnson. The President, it was reported, was furious.

Two days before, three North Vietnamese torpedo boats had attacked the Maddox in the Gulf. The boats were disabled.

"The other side got a sting out of this," Secretary of State Dean Rusk said. "If they do it again, they'll get another sting."

The United States added the Turner Joy to the patrol and warned that grave consequences would follow any further incidents.

Now there was another incident.

In the seven hours and 28 minutes that followed the first report of the attack, the decision was made: If the bee slings, go for the hive.

Here, from various accounts, what happened in that seven hours:

In the Pentagon, after receiving the first word, McNamara went one floor down from his third-level office into "The Tank"—the Joint Chiefs of Staff briefing room of the National Military Command Center.

There he fuddled with Cyrus Vance, deputy secretary of defense; John T. McNaughton, assistant secretary of defense for International Security Affairs; and all the Joint Chiefs of Staff except their chairman, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, who was in New York.

"Throughout the remainder of the morning and early afternoon, flash message reports of the engagement, some ambiguous and some conflicting, continued to pour in," McNamara said later. "The President was kept informed of these developments."

In addition to the President, Rusk and McNamara, members of the National Security Council that summer were Edward A. McDermott, director of the office of Emergency Planning; McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for national security affairs; and Bromley Smith, executive secretary of the council.

The National Security Council's noon meeting began as scheduled, but the issue which prompted the conference, the new crisis on Cyprus, was shunted aside.

Before going to the White House for the meeting, Secretary of State Rusk met at the Pentagon with representatives of the Joint Chiefs.

Information was, at best, fragmentary. At 10:24, the Turner Joy reported it had opened fire on one target, that its radar had observed numerous hits, and that the target had disappeared from the radar scope.

At 10:47, the captain of the Turner Joy said he and other men on the bridge saw a searchlight stab into the sky.

The Security Council discussions continued into lunch, which lasted two hours. The director of the Central Intelligence Agency, John A. McCone, and Deputy Defense Secretary Vance, joined in the talks.

Dying that time, the most disturbing report of all arrived. The commander of the two ships, Capt. John Herrick, sent a cable that "freak weather effects and overeager sonarman may have accounted for many reports (of torpedoes). No actual visual sightings by Maddox. Suggest complete evaluation before any further action."

"Obviously we were concerned and we immediately began to examine it," McNamara said later. "I personally called Admiral Sharp (the Pacific fleet commander in Honolulu) and brought this to his attention and said we obviously do not want to carry out retaliatory action unless we are 'damned sure what happened.' Those were the exact words."

It was agreed at the luncheon, the White House says now, that some retaliatory action would be taken if the attack proved bona fide. McNamara went back to the Pentagon with Vance.

At 1:30 p.m., the Maddox and the Turner Joy reported that the attack appeared ended. At 3 p.m. McNamara and Vance began a 2½ hour review with the Joint Chiefs of Staff of the confusing picture presented by the many cables.

Much of the message traffic during that time has been withheld for security reasons. But Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., made public one Navy message he said was sent to the Maddox in the interval:

"1. Can you confirm absolutely that you were attacked? 2. Can you confirm sinking of PT boats? 3. Desire reply directly supporting evidence."

McNamara said that at 2:45 p.m., Herrick reported he was certain the original ambush was bona fide.

"Details of the action present a confusing picture," McNamara said, "but he had made positive visual sightings of cockpit lights or similar lights passing near the Maddox; and the Turner Joy reported two torpedoes passed near her."

During the meeting with the Joint Chiefs more messages came in from the destroyers, from Pacific naval headquarters, and McNamara later hinted, from secret sources in North Vietnam, supporting the contention the attack was real.

In the State Department and the White House, top echelon people were busy on the diplomatic track. Personal messages were going out from the President to certain heads of state, plans were being drafted for a meeting of NATO, SEATO and the U.N. Security Council.

And the now-controversial Gulf of Tonkin resolution, later passed by Congress, was being put into final form.

Gen. Wheeler, chairman of the joint chiefs, returned from New York about 4:30 and "found that my colleagues were engaged in discussing the types of targets that might be struck" in retaliation.

"The President was kept informed fully during the day," McNamara said. "The number of calls and meetings I had with him exceeded 11 during the day and it was late in the afternoon that he approved the attacks."

Even with this authority, McNamara withheld the execute order. Then, at 6:07 p.m. "The commander in chief Pacific called again and I was present down in the Joint Chiefs' quarters when the call came in."

"We discussed it, and he stated he was fully assured the attack took place. I stated that I was then convinced that it had and I released the executive order on the strike."

Now the crews aboard the carriers Ticonderoga and Constellation made ready to go for the hive—the bases from which the North Vietnamese patrol boats had come.

At 6:15 p.m., the National Security Council gathered in the Cabinet Room of White House, to be joined half an hour later by top congressional leaders, including Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, Minority Leader Everett Dirksen, Majority Whip Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, ranking Republican on that committee.

Mission now underway at Salvation Army

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dr. Taylor Huntley Frazier, nationally known Southern Baptist Evangelist and bible teacher, is currently conducting a preaching and teaching mission at the Salvation Army Citadel, at 78 S. Courtland St.

Captain Rex Worthy, commanding officer of the Salvation Army in Monroe County, announced that the second service in the series will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. The initial talk was presented last Sunday.

Dr. Frazier, a baritone gospel singer, pianist and organist, never took a music lesson. At six years old, with his two fingers on the black piano keys, he played, "Yes, We Have No Bananas Today" and has been playing ever since.

He quit school, in the fourth grade, to help support his family by selling newspapers. At seventeen, he was converted and surrendered to preach the gospel, returning to the fourth grade.

He finished his Christian education in 1952 and holds Th.M. and Th.D. degrees in un-abridged systematic theology. He has ministered throughout most of the United States, Canada and Mexico.

His "Sermon in Song" has been presented over more than 2,000 radio and television stations in the United States and Canada. He will play and sing gospel songs of distinction in every meeting.

This will be the 110th preaching and teaching mission in which Dr. Frazier has engaged with the Salvation Army, in their southern and eastern territories.

When asked if it was not unusual for a Baptist preacher to be ministering with the Salvation Army, Dr. Frazier replied: "I was seven years old when my father was nearly killed by a hit and run driver. Dad, unable to work, could not provide for his family of six. We were cold and hungry. One night, a few days before Christmas, there was a knock on the door. Upon opening it, there stood the captain of the local Salvation Army. 'Merry Christmas!' he exclaimed, as he and his helpers made their way into the big room. I never saw so much food, clothes, toys, nuts, fruit and candy. It was the nicest Christmas I ever had!"

We lived six miles from town and couldn't have cared less about the Salvation Army; nevertheless this man had heard about the "Poor Fraziers" and came in the rescue.

Through this beautiful gesture of Christian love, the Salvation Army endeared itself to me so, I feel that I have a perfect and legitimate right to go with the Salvation Army, anytime I can and anytime I wish, to do whatever I can."

"Although this mission is sponsored by the Salvation Army and conducted by a Baptist, it is nevertheless inter-denominational and city wide. I have come with the Army, to this city, on a mission for Christ," Dr. Frazier said.

The training site for the Marine reservists has been set as Cherry Point, North Carolina.

Area reserves to attend summer camp

WYOMING — Major William S. Gerichten, Officer in Charge of the Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, Wyoming, announced today that the local reserve unit will attend annual training in three groups this year.

The first group of the reservists will leave on July 28 for 14 days of annual training duty.

The first element returns home on August 10.

The second group will depart for their training on August 11.

On August 25 the third and final group will leave for Cherry Point returning to its home site on September 7.

During the 14 days of annual training the Marine reservists will receive technical training in all phases of motor transport operations from the mechanical aspects to convoy driving.

The Marines will also receive instructions from Vietnam veterans on jungle tactical warfare such as that now being experienced by the Marines in South Vietnam.

Marines from the Marine Wing Motor Transport Squadron-5 train annually, along with other Reservists from many parts of the United States.

This enables the reservists to work together as a team and provides the unit Commanding Officer an opportunity to observe the level of training of all members of his unit.

Smithfield tract bought for park

STROUDSBURG — A Smithfield Township tract has been purchased by the Federal Government for inclusion in the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area.

According to a deed filed Tuesday in the Monroe County Courthouse, 0.82 acres of land have been purchased for $2,450 from Majorie P. Kitchen, and George Kitchen, Majorie F. and Richard Heuser, Bloomfield.

JAY CAMERON—National honor

National Jazz group selects local man

STROUDSBURG — Jay Cameron, Stroudsburg businessman and a former member of numerous big-name dance bands of the last two decades, has been named a member of the Jazz Committee on the National Council On The Arts, it was announced Wednesday.

Recommended by bandleader Dizzy Gillespie, Cameron will serve on the committee chair-manned by Willis Conover, who now serves as disc jockey for the Voice of America.

Chairman of the National Council is Roger Stevens, who was appointed to the cultural arts agency by the late President John F. Kennedy.

Cameron, a prominent jazz musician for the past 25 years, is proprietor of the Mainline Music Shop at 825 Main St., Stroudsburg, which he opened in November, 1965.

Before coming to the Poconos, he played baritone sax and clarinet with Woody Herman, Les Elgart, Dizzy Gillespie, and Slide Hampton, and still has a once-a-week stand at the Hotel Americana in New York City.

Resort musician
Locally, Cameron fills in with Bob Newman's band at local resorts, while operating his busy music store full time. "The purpose of the committee, as I understand it," Cameron said, "will be to allot funds to individuals and organizations for the promotion of jazz concerts, clubs, and music appreciation projects, nationwide."

"While I was nominated to serve on the committee by my old friend, Dizzy Gillespie," Cameron related, "I think my work with Local 802 of the New York Musicians Union, where I have been lobbying for more recognition of modern jazz ideals, helped immensely."

"Then, too," the veteran musician went on, "I have been a member of the Jazz Inter-actions — a non-profit organization dedicated to the furthering of modern jazz in the music world."

"Now, perhaps, we can have a local voice in a project I have always hoped for — a jazz festival in the Poconos."

"True music — sounds of the soul — needs a natural and earthly setting. The woods, the trees, the hills, and the clouds of the peaceful Pocono Mountains would provide an ideal setting and background for music from the world of jazz, and that's what I will strive for," Cameron said.

Where heads rolled

Tower spooks still walking

LONDON (AP) — "The ghosts don't bother me but they trouble some of my guards," said the governor of the Tower of London—the fortress where so many royal heads rolled.

"There is a sentry posted in the archway under the Bloody Tower, and we have had cases quite recently of sentries seeing visions at midnight," he said.

"They think they see Anne Boleyn without her head, and sentries have even challenged the vision."

These revelations come from Col. Sir Thomas Pierce Butler, 58, her majesty's resident governor and major at the Tower of London since 1961.

He observed: "I've even wandered at midnight near that evil place, the private scaffold site where queens of England were executed—Queen Katherine Howard, and Henry VIII's second wife, Anne Boleyn—and I've never seen a ghost."

"In my view there are so many around them they all balance each other out."

Queen Elizabeth II recently appointed Butler as keeper of the jewel house, where the crown jewels are kept, in addition to his post as over-all commander of the Tower.

"The job was previously done as a separate task and means quite a lot of extra duties," Butler said.

"I am responsible for the display of the jewels and their safety."

The royal gems add up to quite a bit of responsibility. One stone alone, the famed Koh-i-Noor diamond, was reckoned to be worth $5.6 million—and that was in 1850.

The diamond now is in the front of Queen Mother Elizabeth's crown which lies in the heavily guarded crown jewel room amid other assorted crowns, diadems, orbs, scepters, golden staffs, rods, rings and gold and silver plate.

The Tower, parts of it dating from the 11th century, is owned by Queen Elizabeth.

The queen stays there when she visits the Tower.

"The Tower, like Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle, is a royal palace."

New specifications explained

Sewage act affects homebuilders

STROUDSBURG — Are you planning on Building a House?

If you are, check Pennsylvania's new sewage facilities Act 537 before building that new home.

According to Act 537, all homes or other buildings constructed on lots of less than one acre, which will be served by an on-lot sewage disposal system are affected.

The law does not apply to homes constructed on more than an acre of land, nor does it apply to homes constructed where public sewage services are available. The builder, or other person responsible for building the new home or building, must apply for a permit when an on-lot system is to be used. Applications are made to the municipality within which the construction is located.

The permit application asks for information needed to determine whether an on-lot individual sewage disposal system can be installed. Many facts are needed for this purpose. Perhaps the first question to be considered by the home builder is the soil on the lot itself.

The type of soil must be identified to determine the ability of the soil to safely absorb the liquid sewage that will be coming from the occupied home.

In some areas, municipal offices and State Health Centers maintain records of soil surveys which will tell the home builder if his property is in an area where the soil is suitable for on-lot systems.

It is to the advantage of the person planning to build a home to study the soil survey report before he purchases a plot of ground. If the site is not suitable, a permit to build with a conventional on-lot system will not be granted. A more complex, expensive system may be required.

This may leave the lot owner with a plot of ground on his hands that he will not be permitted to use for individual systems and may have to rely upon development with public sewers.

Other information concerned with lot size, property lines, location of the home, location of the disposal system and the location of water supplies also is required.

The responsibility of the home builder does not end with obtaining a permit, the actual installation of the on-lot sewage disposal system must be as specified in the condition of the permit.

A final inspection indicating approval must be made by the permit issuing body before the system may be used.

The Act is intended to allow construction of homes with on-lot sewage disposal facilities to lots where the soil characteristics and lot lay-out will assure the best chance for satisfactory service from the system.

Act 537 also takes steps to assure the home builder that his sewage disposal system is designed and constructed to accepted standards.

The performance of this system is as important to family health as safe wiring and sound structure is in the home.

Further information concerning Act 537 and its provisions may be obtained from George M. Livingstone, Regional Sewage Facility Coordinator, Pennsylvania Department of Health, Regional I Office, 303 Wyoming Avenue, Kingston, Pa. 17040.

Interested persons can also contact the State Health Centers located in Stroudsburg, Milford, and Honesdale.

Dr. Larson on committee

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dr. Esther Larson, head of the English Department at East Stroudsburg State College, was recently named a member of the International Committee of the Shakespeare Birthplace Fund.

The organization is the American and Canadian affiliate of the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust in England.

The committee is composed of college professors, theater artists, and prominent businessmen.

Among the objectives of the committee are the maintenance of the Shakespeare properties in Stratford-on-Avon and the fostering of Shakespearean research and scholarship through fellowships and associations with learned institutions.

The first town in Kansas to be lighted by natural gas was Pocono in 1884.

May 12-14 annual spring meeting

UCC sets Pocono Manor meet

STROUDSBURG — The Penn Northeast Conference of the United Church of Christ will hold its annual spring meeting at Pocono Manor Inn May 12 to 14. Lay and clergy delegates from 205 churches in 14 northeast Pennsylvania counties will attend.

The Rev. Dr. Everett C. Parker, director of the Office of Communication of the church will address the opening banquet on Sunday night. His topic will be "Let's Talk About The Constructive Side of The Church."

The Rev. Joseph H. Evans, national secretary of the UCC will speak Monday morning on "The State of the Church" in connection with civil rights, urban problems and similar matters.

The Rev. Dr. Herbert E. Van Meter, general secretary for interpretation of the Board for World Ministries of the church will speak Monday night on missions in the Near East, the special interest of the conference.

A feature of the opening banquet will be a drama presented by the PNP Northeast Players of Catawissa, near Bloomsburg. The chancel choir of Jacobs UCC, Weissport, will sing.

Another feature of the conference will be a "coffee house" for the delegates, decorated and manned by young people from St. John's Church, Nazareth.

This group was instrumental in opening an interchurch coffee house recently in the basement of the Nazareth Inn, Nazareth.

Seminars on stewardship, welfare, worship and Christian education will be held during the sessions. Mrs. Astor Guth, Guthsville, will be moderator and the Rev. William T. Langsdorf, minister of the conference, will present his report.

The program will close Tuesday noon with a fellowship luncheon in charge of the Rev. George W. Bickel, vice moderator.

Lab students ready comedy

EAST STROUDSBURG — Students at the Laboratory School in East Stroudsburg will present an instructional comedy in French Wednesday, May 8, at 3:30 p.m.

The cast will be members of Section G in the school.

Bad food infects Air Force cadets

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Contaminated food may have triggered the epidemic of strep infection that struck about 1,000 cadets at the U.S. Air Force Academy, Dr. Roy Cleere, director of the Colorado Health Department, said Tuesday.

Newspaper Advertising
Hits the Mark with a Large and Constant Audience

There's nothing hit-or-miss about the newspaper audience — it's a constant audience that varies little throughout the year. That's because newspaper circulation remains constant with little variation from month to month. There is no summer slump in newspaper reading habits. Furthermore, readers can pick their own time — day or night — to enjoy the paper. And they do — over 107,000,000 of them every day in the U.S. For sure-fire results, advertise consistently in the daily newspaper.

JACK O'BRIAN'S

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Levittown heiress Jeannine Levitt bought husband Bob Leder a Rolls-Royce. Top brass of Women's Wear Daily were overheard in a posh luncheon spot noting a disaffection for RFK as President but Women's Wear daily carries a fashion Valentine to Bobby's Ethel. Television's been charged with over-puffing the Raps-Stokelys-Floyds out of their proportion to the disadvantage of the public; we agree.

If the TV Emmys are proper reflections of what's worthy on TV, how come Jackie Gleason, the Tonight Show, Ired Skelton, Jack Paar never won. Someone overlooked TV Costumes in the Emmy categories. Michel Kazan's explanation of "charisma": what Bobby Kennedy uses on his hair. Vest pocket park on the old Stork Club site is so chic, a panhandler plied his trade there in a Nehru jacket and beads.

Something new in hand-me-downs: George Hamilton's hippie beads belonged to his mom. Positively recommended: Doc Severinson's band at the Riverboat. That's a ballroom sunk beneath the Empire State Building. No, Marlene Dietrich wasn't spifflicated at the Tony Awards: she was simply scared stiff — first time on TV ever. We've never quite got over the old "Big Party" TV variety Marlene was scheduled for but backed away after reading the script — so Rock Hudson got the role.

David Niven's next film will be a gangster opus, "The Brain". New product: "Radiated" bacon, no refrigeration. Vittorio De Sica and his bride (in her 50s) Maria Mercador are honeymooning in Normandy; they have two grown children (from their early struggling days). Broadway's favorite cop Lieut. Arthur Schultzeiss will be saluted at an Americana Hotel luncheon May 28. Sinatra's expected to be there and prove he doesn't hate all cops. Arthur was technical advisor on the last couple of Sinatra's no doubt epics.

Does Margaret Truman know there's a Margaret Truman laundry in Key West; and does the top songwriter realize there's an Irving Berlin haberdashery in Miami Beach? This year's Twiggy, Penelope Tree, signed with Hazel Bishop as its director of beauty and fashion: congratulations to

Years of crisis and war

Lyndon B. Johnson — a troubled president

By SAUL PETT

AP Special Correspondent

From accession to withdrawal, the time was rounded in ironic symmetry.

He began with a nation stunned and bewildered. His withdrawal came with a nation stunned and bewildered.

He began in the lengthening shadow of a dead Kennedy. He ends in the lengthening shadow of a live Kennedy. Always, it seems, there was a Kennedy.

He began with a plan for unity. He ends with a plea for a unity that appeared more elusive than ever. But, curiously, it was at the beginning, when he became President, and at the end, when he said he would not again be President, that he attracted the most compassion from his countrymen.

He began with a nation shaken by violence in the street. He ends with a nation shaken by far more violence in the streets. He began with a nation turning in on itself and questioning itself. He ends in a time of greater national soul-searching.

"My God, my God, what are we coming to?" cried House Speaker John McCormack back there in November, 1963, after the President of the United States was shot and killed in the street and his accused murderer was shot and killed in a jail two days later.

Since then, many more Americans have asked the agonizing question of themselves as they watch, on television, Americans dying in a distant war that seems to defy reason, as they also watch, on television, Americans killing Americans in the streets in a war that seems to defy hope.

Thus, the Lyndon Johnson years, framed in an arch of paradox. And in between, years of triumph and defeat, hope and dismay and many, many separate ironies.

He had pushed through Congress, in his administration, more civil rights legislation than any president in history and yet, at the end, the country's racial problem was more acute than ever. He had passed more social legislation than any president since Franklin Roosevelt and yet he lost the liberals. He spent more federal money on education than any other president and yet he lost the intellectuals and the students. He won, in 1964, the biggest landslide in history and yet, four years later, he found himself at the center of more divisiveness than perhaps any the country had seen since the Civil War.

And in the name and hope of unity, he felt obliged to renounce further claim on the presidency. No one can yet know how history will remember Lyndon Johnson. If he is remembered positively, it will likely be for a long determined stand on principle in foreign affairs and social progress at home. Both possibilities would seem to require certain events occurring in the months left to him in office—peace in Vietnam and the avoidance of a national explosion at home.

If he is remembered negatively, there likely will be historians who will say he was a victim, in many ways, of himself and a victim of events, of personal manner and the deep, impersonal currents of his time.

From the beginning, he was plagued by the word, "style," and to the end, by the phrase, "credibility gap." Even at the moment that many called his finest, when he announced a partial bombing pause in North Vietnam, when he revealed he would not "seek" and would not "accept" renomination, there were those who suspected a double-reverse plot that somehow, on a counterwave of emotion, would bring him the nomination by draft.

But three days later, even as Lyndon Johnson seemed to have consigned himself to the limbo of a lame duck, things began to happen. Or seemed to. Hanoi, in its first hopeful sign, said it was ready to talk about peace talks.

The currents of history that troubled Lyndon Johnson's administration were already moving when he became President. He inherited a small war and a still small race problem. Both grew profoundly large.

Between that dark November in 1963, when he became President, to that stunning Sunday night when he said he would not run again, the war in Vietnam grew and grew and would not go away. It grew into an American war, from 16,000 American troops to more than 511,000. It grew in American casualties, from 120 deaths to more than 20,000.

It grew in puzzlement, in confusion and frustration until it seemed to approach the ultimate in dilemmas—a war we could not afford to lose or go all-out to win. It grew into a storm of loud and bitter protest, at home and abroad, but Lyndon Johnson stuck to his guns and said we would see it through.

And between that same November in 1963 and that Sunday night two weeks ago, America's battle of conscience at home grew and grew. It began then in what now seems like a quieter time, when the racial eruptions appeared confined to the South and Negroes there, with the welcome aid of young white liberals from the North, were demonstrating for their constitutional rights. The white North leaned back and said, with self-righteous concern, isn't it awful about Selma and Birmingham and the old South, but that was only the beginning of the convulsion.

And then came Lyndon Johnson, the first man from the South to become President in 100 years. He stood up in the House and in his first presidential address before a joint session of Congress, on a night when his countrymen were still numbed by the trauma of John Kennedy's death, Lyndon Johnson pleaded for quick and comprehensive civil rights legislation. This man with the tones of the South, had moved into the White House with great care to preserve the nation's sense of continuity and unity, was particularly moving that night. He ended his speech with the familiar words:

"America, America, God shed his grace on thee, And crown thy good With brotherhood, From sea to shining sea."

WELCOME YOUTH FOR CHRIST ORGANIZATION

Convention being planned

"Ocean City Ho!"—Youth for Christ Regional directors meet at Holiday Inn, East Stroudsburg, to discuss plans for area teen convention at Ocean City, New Jersey, in mid June. About fifty Pocono youths will participate in the week-long event. Left to right are, Randy Whittig, assistant director Monroe County; Jerry Major, Reg. Dir. ## International reading meeting

Dr. Schiffman ESSC speaker

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dr. Gilbert B. Schiffman, titling his talk as "Don't Put Lids on Kids," will address the May 7 meeting of the International Reading Association to be held at East Stroudsburg State College.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the college dining hall.

Miss Margaret Mace, president of the local council of the IRA said that the membership has opened this meeting to parents, teachers, administrators, and all other non-members who are interested in reading.

Dr. Schiffman is presently the Director of Instruction for Prince George's County in Maryland. He is a lecturer at Loyola College, an associate in Pediatrics at the University of Maryland Hospital and an assistant in Medical Psychology at John Hopkin's College.

He has also served as a classroom teacher, a reading specialist, and a corrective remedial supervisor. Dr. Schiffman is currently the president of the Association of State Supervisors of Readings and English. He is the author of 18 published articles and has contributed to many books and monographs relating to reading and working with children.

Select group eyes area

STROUDSBURG — A very select group of men is considering the Pocono Mountains as the site of its 1970 convention.

The group isn't political; it's not a nationwide civic organization, but it is one of the most selective groups in the country.

The American Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor, Inc., is the name of the outfit.

The Defenders, who will hold their 1968 convention in Binghamton, N. Y., May 16 to 19, are what is left of the 33,000 American GIs and civilian personnel who made the famous "death march" on Bataan and Corregidor during the early days of World War II.

Last week, four survivors of that infamous march were in the Poconos looking over prospective sites for their 1970 convention, which attracts about 300 persons.

Albert Senna, site committee chairman, and Frank Di Pasquale, Dan DeNobile and Pat Patrizio, visited Fernwood, Pocono Manor, Taminent and Mt. Airy.

The four were impressed with the Poconos and with their host, John Valence, and the chances are good that the 70 convention will be some place in the Poconos.

During the convention, which is usually held in conjunction with Armed Forces Week, the men recall the tortuous events during more than three years in Japanese prison camps.

Of the 33,000 Americans who were captured during one of this country's darkest hours, only 1,300 returned.

Most of the captives were shipped to the Japanese mainland and put to work in jobs which were vital to the Japanese war effort.

Like most Americans, the majority of the survivors have forgiven the Japanese as a people.

However, they lived through a moment in history which will not only remain indelible in their minds but on the pages of history books.

Valence will give a presentation in behalf of the Poconos during the Binghamton convention.

Bond sales on increase in county

STROUDSBURG — Purchases of United States Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares in Monroe County for March, 1968, were $179,578, bringing the total to date at $533,889 or 26.3 per cent of the county's annual quota, Robert F. Davenport, chairman, announced Sunday.

For Pike County, the figures are $9,828 for March, for a current total of $37,078 or 18.3 per cent of the quota, Donald Z. Wade, county chairman reported.

In Wayne County, $40,823 in bonds were purchased for March for a current total of $195,013 or 30 per cent of the quota; Northampton County's purchases for March were $1,416,533 for a current total of $4,359,030 or 28.2 per cent of the quota, James A. Hemstreet, county chairman, said.

The state figure for March is $37,823,000 for a current total of $122,523,000, showing a gain of 3.3 per cent over the same period last year.

Pennsylvania had led all states in the sales of United States Savings Bonds. For the first half of the government's fiscal year 1968, $1,186,000 in bonds were purchased; an increase of 7.5 per cent over the same period last year.

Three-car crash near Echo Lake

ECHO LAKE — State Police from Stroudsburg investigated a three-car accident Sunday at 2:25 p.m. on Rt. 209 near Vacation Valley. They reported no injuries.

The drivers were Douglas C. Deving, 22, of Linden, N. J.; George Lovenberg, 46, of Morris Plains, N. J.; and James D. Talotta, 23, of Pen Argyl.

According to police, the Talotta car had stopped to make a left turn. Lovenberg also stopped. Deving stepped on his brakes to stop and his foot slipped off the brake pedal and onto the gas pedal.

The Deving car struck the Lovenberg vehicle and knocked it into the Talotta car.

Total damage is estimated at $600.

The bidding:

North East South West
 Pass 1 ♠ 3 ♥
 4 ♥ Dble

Opening lead—four of hearts.
 This deal occurred in a team match and features unusually good defensive play.

At the first table, the bidding went as shown and South became declarer at four hearts doubled. West was aware that his partner had doubled on high card values outside of trumps, and he therefore chose a trump as his opening lead in order to cut down dummy's potential ruffing power. This proved to be an excellent idea that resulted in South's never getting a diamond ruff in dummy. Declarer won the trump lead in his hand and returned a diamond. West went up with the nine, East following up with the eight, and led another trump. won in dummy with the jack. Declarer returned a diamond and East, holding the A-K-J, made the magnificent play of the jack.

West overtook with the queen and led a third round of trumps, won in dummy with the queen. Declarer finessed the queen of clubs successfully at this point, but eventually went down two—500 points—after losing four diamonds and a spade.

The combination of the trump lead and the subsequent defense can be even more appreciated by comparing the outcome at this table with that at the second table, where the contract was also four hearts doubled.

West led a low spade, won by East with the ace, and East returned a low club. Declarer finessed the queen and led a low diamond on which West played the seven. East had to win this trick, and, from that point on, South could not be stopped from making contract.

Declarer eventually ruffed two diamonds in dummy and the only tricks he lost were a spade and two diamonds. As a result, South made four hearts doubled for a score of 790 points, which somehow or other suggests that good defense is a very important part of the game.
